

New York Jittery Over Papal Visit

Block the Killer 'Priests'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Detectives seeking to prevent a possible attack on Pope Paul here by any anti-religious fanatics disguised as priests have alerted shopkeepers to report any suspicious purchases of religious apparel.

At the same time federal and city security agents, preparing for the Pope's pilgrimage Monday, combed files of known psychopaths and other potential trouble-makers and tabbed them for special police surveillance.

The Pope will deliver 11 speeches during his stay here, most of them in English. But his major speech, a plea for the United Nations for world leaders to negotiate their differences, will be delivered in French.

Police Commissioner Vincent Broderick said law enforcement agencies had combined their efforts in a check of anti-Catholic members of hate groups. Eighteen thousand security assignments have been handed out in the police department alone in connection with the visit.

A spokesman for a religious apparel firm said a priest's apparel could easily be purchased for less than $100 and added, "frankly, there's no difficulty in purchasing such items ordinarily."

Wednesday, teams of policemen scoured the 24 miles of roadway the Pope will travel at a leisurely 12 miles an hour on his trip from Kennedy airport to St. Patrick's Cathedral, looking for likely places for an assassin to hide.

Bootleg beer piles up in police storage

Seized Brew Destined For Drain

VANCOUVER (CP)—It's enough to put a B.C. beer drinker off his side.

With supplies dried up for more than a month by a strike of coast breweries, Lower Mainland beer fanciers learned Wednesday that more than 5,000 bottles now held by Vancouver police could finish up going down the drain.

Police said beer or liquor seized as evidence in bootlegging cases is forfeited to the Crown if a conviction is recorded. It is then turned over to the RCMP for disposal. An RCMP spokesman said normal procedure is to feed 15 cases at a time into a reduction press. The bottles are smashed and the beer goes down a drain.

Vancouver police are holding 428 cases of beer—most of it from small interior breweries not on strike—as they continue their crackdown on beer runners.

They seized 105 cases Wednesday, and confiscated a 1954 model car, following a raid on a city home.

In the last five days, nine persons have been charged with bootlegging. Four cars, as well as beer, have been confiscated. Chief Constable Ralph Booth warned under Section 64 of the Government Liquor Act seizure of a vehicle in which liquor is being kept for sale is virtually automatic.

Section 64 provides for a maximum fine of $1,000 or six months in jail for a first conviction on bootlegging. Minimum sentence is a $300 fine or three months in jail. Second offenders go to jail for up to 12 months, with no provision for a fine.

As seized beer continued to pour in, Vancouver police Wednesday began storing the cases in a basement room at the police station. The regular storage vault already is packed to the ceiling.

Meanwhile, there is no sign of a break in the strike that began Aug. 23.

Squabble Over Beer Fatal to Customer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man died of a heart attack here Wednesday during a squabble over a case of beer in the sixth week of a brewery strike.

Police said Jack Eng was one of many who rushed to a third floor liquor store when word got out that it had received a shipment of beer from one of two small breweries still operating.

A squabble developed when Eng ordered two cases of beer and protests ensued from those waiting in line.

In a struggle that followed Eng fell to the sidewalk and struck his head.

A man, held for questioning, later was released when an autopsy showed Eng died of a heart attack and that his head wound was minor.

'War Crimes' Trials

North Viet Nam Promises More Executions

SAIGON (AP)—North Viet Nam has hurled threats of war crimes trials and execution at American and South Vietnamese fighting men.

U.S. spokesmen in Washington Wednesday called the threats a resort to savagery and a smoke-screen for reprisals against the execution by North Viet Nam of persons convicted of being Viet Cong guerrilla agents.

The threat of trials came from the North Vietnamese government in a letter to the International Red Cross at Geneva. It declared American and South Vietnamese pilots captured in its territory would be treated as war criminals who must face tribunals.

An official Hanoi publication hinted that Americans captured on the ground in the future may be executed summarily.

U.S. officials in Saigon had no official reaction but informants said they were concerned over the threats.

On the warfronts Wednesday, U.S. advisers at Qui Nhon, 250 miles northeast of Saigon, reported three Viet Cong regiments—about 3,000 men—massing in an area where they fought bloody engagements with South Vietnamese troops last week and again Tuesday night.

Elsewhere, U.S. marines and South Vietnamese forces clashed with the Viet Cong in scattered fights and U.S. planes, including B-52 bombers from Guam, pounded targets in South Viet Nam while other American aircraft raided in North Viet Nam.

The North Vietnamese letter was in reply to a Red Cross appeal to both sides to observe the Geneva convention for the protection of prisoners and civilians in Viet Nam.

U.S. officials in Washington expressed disappointment over the apparent rejection by North Viet Nam of the Red Cross efforts.

The hint of execution for Americans captured by the Viet Cong came from the official Hanoi daily, Nhan Dan. The Communist publication said Capt. Humbert R. Versace of Baltimore, Md., and Sgt. Kenneth M. Roraback, whose wife lives at Fayetteville, N.C. and who were shot by the Viet Cong Sunday, "would have been put to death long ago had it not been for the lenient policy" of the Viet Cong.

Then the paper warned that the execution two weeks ago of three Viet Cong sympathizers by South Vietnamese gives Americans "no chance to continue enjoying that leniency."

U.S. officials in Saigon had no official reaction but informants said they were concerned over the threats.

Aftermath of Taal

Divers Seek Dead

MANILA (AP)—Rescue workers cautiously checking the Lake Taal island blackened by Tuesday's eruption of Mount Taal, said Wednesday they found ashes and volcanic debris 30 feet deep in places. Only rooftops showed in a half-dozen villages.

There was no immediate sign of human life on the 12 1/4 square-mile island, where 2,000 Filipinos had lived and farmed 40 miles south of Manila. Many had fled during the eruption to the lakeshore, five to 50 miles away, braving a rain of stones that sank frail boats. (See story, picture page 28.)

The Red Cross said 184 bodies were recovered on the shore.

MURKY WATER

Frogmen hunted for bodies in the lake, whose once-clear waters were murky with volcanic ash. Battered bodies of farm animals bobbed on the surface.

Rescuers drew some cheer from the fact that the area covered with ash and lava was somewhat smaller than originally reported. It appeared that about one-third of the island was badly hit, but residents of the other two-thirds may have had a chance to get to boats.

TOLL 200?

The Philippine constabulary reported about 15,000 people in refugee camps. A good number of these may be from the island itself, with the rest from threatened shorelines nearby.

The Manila Daily Mirror, which had reporters on the island, said the eventual death toll may turn out to be 500.

The volcano continued to growl 48 hours after the eruption. Black smoke and steam billowed out of the newly-formed crater on the edge of the island.

India Balks

Pull-Out Plan Rejected

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—India Wednesday turned down Pakistan's proposal that all Indian and Pakistani troops be withdrawn from Kashmir and replaced with a United Nations peacekeeping force pending settlement of the dispute over the Himalayan state.

H. E. Syed Mir Qasim, Kashmir minister with the Indian delegation to the UN, told the General Assembly "we are entirely opposed to this proposal" because, he said, Kashmir is a part of India and not an independent state as Pakistan claims.

Qasim was replying to an address Tuesday by Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto of Pakistan who accused India of aggression and proposed that a force from African, Asian and Latin-American states supervise Kashmir pending negotiations which would lead to a plebiscite in the troubled state.

Qasim charged that Pakistan, and not India, was the aggressor and then went on to outline how the people of Kashmir, though predominantly Muslim, "made their choice as between the Indian and Pakistani ideologies long before the events of Indian independence and the partition of the country."

Kashmir is an "integral part" of India, the Indian delegate said. "Its people are free nations of India, who have made their choice of union with India and ratified the union through their representatives elected on the basis of adult franchise."

In the morning, Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France urged the United Nations not to use force in trying to keep peace in the world.

"Resorting to force could only be an adventure," said the foreign minister, delivering France's first policy statement in the assembly debate in five years.

France, however, had no objections to truce supervisory operations such as those now under way in the Indian-Pakistani dispute, the French foreign minister said.

Indians Claim Win After Camel Clash

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP)—India claimed Wednesday it has gained the upper hand in fighting that erupted between Indian rangers and Pakistani camel units in the Rajasthan Desert despite the ceasefire agreement with Pakistan.

A defence ministry spokesman said "grave losses in men and equipment" have been inflicted on Pakistani units, which he charged were trying to infiltrate the west Indian state of Rajasthan.

SADDLERY

He said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured in clashes near the villages of Kelnor, Dedisar and Chotan. War booty seized by the Indians was reported to include "18 camels complete with saddlery."

In Rawalpindi, a Pakistani spokesman said Indian troops committed another breach of the ceasefire Tuesday night in the Husseinwal-Khem Karan sector. The spokesman alleged an Indian soldier was killed.

Student Spots House Fire, Man Saved

Fast action by a Sanich Fire Department and a University of Victoria student saved the life of James Blackstock, 1973 Taylor, brother of the late Victoria police chief John Blackstock, early this morning.

Fred Worthington, 19, of 1461 Derby was on his way home when he spotted fire and smoke coming from the Blackstock residence. He called firemen.

Firemen broke into the house and found Mr. Blackstock on his back on the kitchen floor, overcome by smoke. They applied artificial respiration and took him to Royal Jubilee Hospital where he was detained overnight.

Family Ordered Out

Wilderness Dreams Dashed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lee van Dusen's dream of life in the British Columbia wilderness has vanished.

He, his wife and three children have been ordered back to the U.S.

Two other American families, also from Tipton, Ind., will remain behind and try to build a life, away from the city, at Wakeman

Sound, a remote mainland inlet about 200 miles north-east of here.

Immigration authorities ruled the van Dusens were not properly landed immigrants and have given them until the middle of October to leave the country.

Van Dusen, 27, told authorities he would have his wife Karen and three children fleeing out of an abandoned logging camp in which the families are living. Van Dusen said he would leave by boat as soon as he made repairs on his small inboard.

Immigration authorities said the heads of the other two families, Dave Stafford and Jack Myers, both 31, plan to obtain jobs in logging camps on the island.

"They will make good immigrants," an immigration spokesman said here Wednesday.

ne day. "If they can't make a living where they are, they will move out and fit into some community."

The men were quoted as saying they feared sporadic nuclear warfare, an impending Communist takeover, creeping socialism and the "Mickey Mouse philosophy."

"All they really want to do is get away from city life," the spokesman said. "The Myers and Staffords lived on opposite sides of a freeway in Indiana and their children couldn't play with each other."

"They're intelligent people capable of taking care of themselves."

"There's a telephone at the logging camp so they're not quite as isolated as it would seem. They can call out in case of an emergency."

Russia-U.S.

Relations Grow Cold

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev said in a speech published today that Soviet-American relations "show a clearly evident tendency toward freezing."

Brezhnev gave a report on his year-old party leadership to a closed session of the party's Central Committee in the Kremlin yesterday. The official Soviet Tass news agency published the speech early today.

Brezhnev admitted that Soviet relations with many of the world powers — the United States, Communist China, Britain and West Germany — are bad.

Moscow-Washington relations, Brezhnev said, "have become greatly complicated and show a clearly evident tendency toward freezing."

"Normalization of our relations is incompatible with the armed aggression of American imperialism against a fraternal socialist country... Viet Nam," Brezhnev added.

Brezhnev said the Soviet Union is sending North Viet Nam "a considerable amount of weapons and military equipment" — the strongest Kremlin statement so far that it is sending more than token aid to Hanoi.

TRIED TO PATCH UP

The Communist chief said he and other Soviet leaders tried during the past year to patch up their relations with Communist China.

These efforts, he said, "were not supported by the Chinese Communist Party leaders."

Nevertheless, Brezhnev added, Russia will continue "the search for ways to settle the disagreement."

Old Catholic Church

Nuns Take New Oath

TORONTO (CP)—For the first time in its history, the Old Roman Catholic Church in Canada has a monastic order made up of seven Victoria nuns.

Archbishop Nelson Hillyer said Wednesday the nuns left the Roman Catholic Church "last Thursday and one by one knelt down in a mass in the chapel at their animal shelter and swore allegiance to me as their archbishop."

"They're quite proud they're our first nuns," he added.

The Old Roman Catholic Church came into existence in 1870 when the first ecumenical council in Rome suspended the bishop of Utrecht and his followers for refusing to accept as dogma Roman Catholic doctrines of the immaculate conception and the bodily assumption of Mary. They also would not accept papal infallibility, that priests had to remain bachelors or that the mass could be said only in Latin.

CJOR

Station Bought Outright

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver businessmen James A. Pattison and Ralph Cunningham Wednesday bought radio station CJOR outright for $459,000.

They purchased 29,891 shares from CJOR president Mrs. Marie Chandler and 28,081 shares from minority shareholders.

BBG RULING

A recommendation by the Board of Broadcast Governors, approved by Transport Minister Pickersgill, had stipulated only that the new owners acquire 51 per cent of the shares by Oct. 15 and the remainder over the next five years.

SAME MANAGER

Pattison said John Donaldson will continue to manage CJOR. He said Mr. Donaldson, news and editorial director Alex Young, general sales manager Jerry Altman and account executive Keith McMyn will be given the chance to acquire shares.

The sale of CJOR became necessary after the BBG said it would not recommend renewal of CJOR's licence under the management of Mr. Chandler.

Canadian Citizenship Not Necessary

OTTAWA (CP) — You don't have to be a Canadian citizen to vote in the Nov. 8 election. The Canada Elections Act states only that to qualify for voting a person must have been in Canada on the day the election writ was issued—Sept. 8—be 21 on voting day and a Canadian citizen or British subject with a year's residence in the country before the issue of the writ.

This means that aside from Canadian citizens, citizens of the United Kingdom and all Commonwealth countries, plus the republics of Ireland and South Africa, may vote if they meet the other rules.

No vote is permitted to visitors or to immigrants not yet Canadian citizens. A landed immigrant needs five years' residence in the country to qualify.

AMERICANS WARNED

United States citizens are usually warned by their government that they face loss of U.S. citizenship if they vote in a Canadian election.

Some Americans find their names mistakenly placed on the voters' lists. Although this is not proof they have voted, many ask the electoral revising officer to remove their names.

In the 1962 election, all Canadian Indians were eligible to vote for the first time, provided they met the usual requirements. Until then Indians living on reserves were considered wards of the government and, with certain exceptions, were denied the franchise.

Eskimos have had the franchise since 1953.

WHEN WRIT ISSUED

A person votes in the constituency where he was living when the writ was issued. If he moved after that date, Sept. 8, he must return to his former home to cast his ballot.

Clergymen and school teachers and their wives who take up new postings after the writs are issued are exempted from this provision. They are permitted to vote in their new constituency.

Four Cities

Poverty Study Sought

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has asked the Canadian Welfare Council, a national voluntary agency, to make a study of poverty in four Canadian cities.

Reuben C. Baetz, executive director of the council, said Wednesday the urban poverty study will be made of 200 low-income families in Saint John, N.B., Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver.

PRIVY COUNCIL

The project was commissioned by the special planning secretary of the Privy Council, the key government body directing the "war on poverty." It will cost about $19,000.

Mr. Baetz said in an interview the study, together with an earlier one on rural poverty by the council, will provide important information needed as a guide for future moves.

USED AS BASIS

The material from the two studies will be used as a basis for description of poverty problems at a Dec. 7 federal-provincial conference on poverty. The council's latest study will be completed by the end of November.

David Woodworth, director of research for the council, said the study would be made of 50 households in each city.

URBAN POOR

Montreal was chosen for the study because it contains the largest number of French-speaking urban poor and because of its conglomeration of races and ethnic groups.

Toronto was chosen because of the interest of its social planning council, which has done similar studies and is co-operating in this one, and because of its large numbers of urban poor of mixed ethnic origin.

PREVIOUS RESEARCH

Vancouver's size, and the existence of previous research done by the social planning section of the Community Chest and councils there, were factors in its selection.

Humiliated Chinese Yearn for Revenge

By ROBERT ELEGANT, from Hong Kong

What is driving the Chinese Communists to act as they do?

The quick answer, which requires some expansion for intelligibility, is this: A profound ignorance of the outside world with an overwhelming conviction of moral superiority and a seething resentment of the manner in which foreigners—and to the Chinese this means white Europeans and Americans—exploited and humiliated China for a century and a half.

The Chinese yearn for revenge, and they are convinced that they will get it. Above all, they are determined to restore China to the position of pre-eminence she enjoyed before the Europeans came to Asia, when China was civilization and all others were barbarian.

China must, once again, be the acknowledged centre of the world. Leadership of the swarming underdeveloped nations is the road the Chinese Communists have chosen to reach that goal.

Anyone who comes into contact with the Chinese Communists is forcibly made aware of an ignorance that really believes the oppressed masses of London, Paris, and Chicago merely await the signal of hope to rise in revolt against capitalist masters who oppress them to the point of starvation.

Nonetheless, it is difficult for even the initiated westerner to attain a full appreciation of just how far that ignorance goes.

No one within the Chinese Communist ranks is immune to effects of that ignorance. Old reports recently confirmed tell the nearly incredible story of Prime Minister and former Foreign Minister Chou en-Lai's chastisement in 1964.

Chou Reprimanded

Chou, perhaps the only member of the topmost echelon who has some realistic appreciation of the state of the world outside China, made a tour of Africa last year.

Aware of sensitive local pride, he contented himself with noting with approbation the progress the newly independent countries of that continent had made.

Each country, he indicated, must find its own way to its own salvation—and each would do so, though he was confident that all would eventually realize that socialism was the best answer.

Chou was called back to Peking and reprimanded. He should know, the hard-liners declared, secure in their ignorance, that violent revolution was the only road to salvation.

Dutifully Chou en-Lai returned to Africa to declare that the continent was ripe for revolution. He outraged and alarmed local leaders, turning many against Peking, but he satisfied the aggressive know-nothings in Peking.

The Communists' ignorance of the true state of the outside world is a logical phenomenon. Few of the senior leaders have had any real experience of the world outside China since the early 1920s, and chairman Mao Tse-Tung has had none at all.

Besides, to admit to themselves that the underdeveloped world was not ripe for revolution and the capitalist world not on the verge of collapse would make a mockery of their firm belief that China is rapidly rising to absolute pre-eminence by her leadership of the "peoples' war" that will remake the world.

Two Sides of Coin

The Chinese conviction of absolute superiority and their determination to restore China's pre-eminence while gaining revenge for the wrongs they have suffered at the hands of Europeans and Americans are two sides of the same coin. And that coin weighs heavy in the balance of international power.

China was the world when the first Western Europeans came to the emperor's court in the late 1700s, seeking normal diplomatic and trade relations. The Chinese could no more conceive of a nation that was their equal in power and civilization than the Europeans could understand the Chinese haughtiness.

The result was a cycle of small wars which gradually destroyed the Chinese at the fountainhead of all knowledge and the source of all virtue. Two opium wars were followed by a series of incidents which slowly stripped China of most of her sovereignty as well as her overseas possessions.

Peking, the imperial capital, was twice occupied and the emperor's palace twice sacked, the last time in 1900 when a secret society called the Boxers sought to expel the Europeans.

Having discovered that they could not persuade the Chinese to deal with them as diplomatic and commercial equals, the European nations, with the United States following, determined that they would force China to accede to their wishes. Merchant adventurers, backed by their nation's armed forces, could not forego the inviting opportunities to exploit China grievously.

All They Had Left

Even when China was no more than a collection of loosely linked warlord states, variously exploited by outsiders, the Chinese never surrendered their conviction of ultimate superiority. It was almost all they had left.

The Communists, therefore, came to power moved chiefly by the nationalistic determination to restore the nation, rather than a deep concern for the welfare of the Chinese people. All their deeds have been directed to that end.

Communism, now more oppressive and dogmatic in China than it is anywhere else in the world, has always been the chosen instrument to restore China's glory, rather than an end in itself.

Those three factors—ignorance, resentment, and arrogance—shape the men of Peking. They are intensified by a compulsion to create a Chinese utopia throughout the world.

There is little hope that men in their late sixties and early seventies will alter their thinking. To do so would be to confess that the purpose of their lives cannot be attained.

But a streak of hardheaded practicality complements apparent Chinese fanaticism. Confronted with impossible obstacles, internally or externally, the Chinese Communists have always recoiled.

There is, therefore, good reason to hope that the next generation, which is now making its way up the precipitous slopes to power, will be less dogmatic.

In their gradual acceptance of reality lies the hope that China, with its vast population and diverse talents, can become a useful and happy member of the family of nations.

In the past, Chinese ignorance of the world outside has been matched by outsiders' ignorance of China. Chinese arrogance has been over-matched by foreign stubbornness and brutality. The clash of those attitudes has brought the world to the present impasse—and the present danger that China, through miscalculation, may precipitate a catastrophic war.

It is not only the Chinese who need to enlighten their ignorance and abate their intransigence.

BACKGROUND

Kremlin Switch Rumored

Brezhnev On Way Out?

By LAJOS LEDERER

From Vienna

The Austrian capital is buzzing with reports of imminent changes in the Soviet leadership.

The rumor—believed to have come from Moscow—is that Leonid Brezhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, is to be replaced by Mikhail Suslov, the party's chief ideologist, and that Alexei Kosygin, chairman of the Council of Ministers (prime minister) is on his way out, too.

As far as one can discover here, the renewed speculation about these two men is due to two factors:

• Reports of Brezhnev's state of health (which show striking resemblance to those which preceded Nikita Khrushchev's "retirement"). Brezhnev is said to be completely exhausted and recent visitors to Moscow describe him as "a very sick man." According to this source the change-over will probably take place in November, when President Mikoyan should retire on reaching the age of 70.

• The comings and goings in Moscow and other East European capitals and the hastily arranged talks between Soviet and East European Communist leaders have not ended. This lends credence to suggestions that something unusual is happening. The latest bloc leader to turn up in Moscow is the Hungarian prime minister, Gyula Kallai, and Janos Kadar, the Hungarian party leader, is expected there at the end of the month.

Well-informed Austrian sources, however, believe that the recent discussions were concerned more with radical changes in Soviet economic planning—to be announced this week—than with personal changes at the top.

Birth Control Text 'Inadequate'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council's text on birth control was assailed by prelates Wednesday as inadequate for Roman Catholic couples. The church also was urged to change its stand on divorce.

Attacks against the birth control draft as vague, overly general and misleading came from both progressive and conservative bishops at the council. Among the progressives was Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal.

But the greatest stir of the day's council meeting in St. Peter's Basilica came when a prelate from Egypt suggested that the Roman Catholic Church follow the example of some Orthodox churches and permit divorce in certain cases.

Archbishop Elie Zoghbi, patriarchal vicar for Egyptian prelates, called this problem more serious than that of birth control.

He questioned the justice of forcing a life of solitude on a validly married person abandoned by the other partner or wed to someone permanently insane.

"Could not the church, without prejudice to the indissolubility of marriage, use her authority on behalf of the innocent party in these cases as has been the case in the Christian Orient, he asked.

There is no divorce in the Roman Catholic Church. Under some circumstances, marriages can be annulled.

Members of the American bishops' press panel said afterwards that though the Egyptian prelate did not use the word "divorce," he was talking about it.

The discussion on birth control and divorce came in the council debate on its draft document on modern world problems.

Disturbed Child Can Be Helped By New Pattern of Response

Understanding a problem doesn't make it go away, James Mair, director of Sevenoaks Children's Treatment Centre said Tuesday. He was speaking at a meeting of the Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children in Spencer House.

"This is bunko," said Mr. Mair.

"Often it is not even necessary for the emotionally ill child to understand his problem.

"Instead we must offer him a concrete new pattern of response to his environment."

He said people must do away with the idea that emotionally-disturbed children are totally the result of bad parents.

The attitude that disturbed children come only from bad families can do harm, he said.

"People tend to shut them away in a closet, and delay the child in for treatment."

"We should do all possible to treat the child within the family unit, or involve the family in the treatment of the child."

"The parents and family often need as much help as the child."

Car Deal Campaign Key

OTTAWA (UPI)—Although the Nov. 8 election campaign is just underway, the Canada-United States automobile agreement is emerging as one of its key economic issues.

Opposition spokesmen have levelled sharp criticism at the free trade pact which also is being pierced by verbal barbs in the U.S. Senate.

The agreement, signed last January by President Lyndon Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson, would eliminate tariffs on new cars and new car parts shipped between the two countries.

SENATE SNAG

It already has become effective in Canada but has run into opposition in the American Senate which is threatening to delay its passage indefinitely.

The Pearson government has said the trade pact will be a boon to the economy by providing 50,000 new jobs through expansion of the Canadian auto and auto parts industries.

Although $50 million will be lost in tariff duties, government spokesmen claim this will be more than made up by increased tax revenues growing out of the industry's expansion.

The question of the voter appeal of claims of economic benefits versus lower car prices is a troublesome one which some Liberals see as hard to sell to the public.

Castro's Offer Puzzles Many

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban exiles here said Wednesday thousands will flee Cuba if Premier Fidel Castro keeps his promise to permit opponents of his Communist regime to leave.

But they viewed Castro's offer with mixed reactions.

A state department spokesman said in Washington that Castro's offer, made in a Havana speech last night, will get "careful study."

Exiles called it a "two-edged sword," with both good and bad aspects—whether it is accepted or rejected by the United States.

Castro proposed Oct. 10—anniversary of Cuba's first attempt at independence from Spain in 1898—as the starting date for the exodus of his enemies from Cuba in small boats to the United States.

Gromyko Meets Rusk

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko discussed disarmament, the India-Pakistan conflict and other matters with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk Wednesday night. But he declined to say whether they made any progress toward improving U.S.-Soviet relations.

Gromyko scheduled a second meeting with Rusk, to be held Friday night. The two are attending the United Nations General Assembly here.

After dining at Rusk's New York hotel suite and discussing outstanding issues for nearly three hours, the Soviet foreign affairs chief told reporters the atmosphere had been friendly.

Gromyko declined to comment on an assertion made Wednesday by his Communist party boss in Moscow, Leonid I. Brezhnev, that U.S. "armed aggression" in Viet Nam had put a freeze on U.S.-Soviet relations.

Newfoundland

Forest Study Pledged

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson's non campaign becomes an on campaign today as he flies to Newfoundland for his first major public rally.

Eighteen hours before take-off he announced an eight-year $5,750,000 forest inventory and land capability study for the province.

The announcement was made by press release from his office. It was the latest of several Mr. Pearson has made the same way in recent days.

ADVANTAGES

The 388-word release outlined the advantages the study will bring to the province which has seven federal seats, all of them now Liberal.

Mr. Pearson's visit to the private preserve of Premier Joey Smallwood will be a quickie. He is scheduled to make one speech, then fly back here Friday morning.

BACK TO ONTARIO

He will stay here until Tuesday when he will fly to meetings in Kirkland Lake and Timmins. Thursday he will speak in Winkler and Dauphin, Man.

His aides maintain he will continue to make two and three-day excursions from Ottawa until very late in the campaign when he will step up the pace.

OTHER MEETINGS

His itinerary has not been published. But it was learned that the following meetings are tentatively planned.

Oct. 15 and 16, Prince Edward Island. Oct. 19, Calgary, Oct. 20, Edmonton and 21 Regina or Saskatoon.

Then he plans a major rally in Toronto Oct. 26, London, Oct. 27, Ottawa, Oct. 28 and Montreal Oct. 29.

TO VANCOUVER

He will start the first week in November with a meeting in Vancouver. Then he will spend one day each in Winnipeg, Ottawa, Halifax and Toronto.

Most of the time the Prime Minister will travel in a DC-8 chartered by the Liberal party for the campaign at a cost of close to $1,000 per day.

ECONOMY FLIGHTS

Newsmen travelling with him are billed for the economy equivalent of the flight costs.

Mr. Pearson uses a department of transport Viscount for purely non-political functions he attends as prime minister.

School Site Bought

Saanich school board has bought a five-acre site for its planned Del Monte Elementary School.

The site, announced at this week's board meeting, is at the northwest corner of Alderley and Cordova Bay Roads. Cost was $28,000.

Funds for the site were made available by the recently-passed Referendum 9. An expandable four-room school will be built by September, 1966.

On Sunday the board's long-range planning committee, headed by Trustee Mrs. Nora Lindsay, will tour two or three elementary schools in New Westminster and Surrey.

The board is looking for a standard school plan suited to future expansion. Mrs. Lindsay said Tuesday. District 63 hopes to save architects' fees by standardizing, she explained.

Rawlinson Funeral On Friday

Funeral services will be held in McCall Bros at 1:15 p.m. Friday for Mrs. Georgina Frances Rawlinson, of 435 Michigan, who died Tuesday at the age of 90.

Born in England she lived in Victoria for 15 years.

She is survived by her husband, Rev. Frederick Charles; three sons, Fred of Victoria, Herbert of Edmonton, and Ronald of Emmett, Idaho; one daughter, Mrs. Fred (Gladys) Lowndes of Kelvington, Sask.; eight grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Villagers Walk Out

Outburst Ends Sidney Meeting Over Road Plan

A special meeting of Sidney council ended abruptly Wednesday night when approximately one quarter of the ratepayers audience walked out of the hall.

The meeting, attended by about 150 villagers was called by council to explain the details of the controversial road development program on which they will vote Monday.

FINANCIAL QUERIES
The majority of the ratepayers' grumbling questions were directed at village finance chairman Andries Boas.

It was a question put to Commissioner Boas by former Commissioner F. S. B. Heward which caused the meeting to erupt.

TECHNICAL CLAUSE
Mr. Heward asked him to reconcile a discrepancy between the council's brochure claiming no increase in taxes for the program and a technical clause in the village bylaw for the roads program which apparently is contrary to the brochure. Commissioner Boas said he could not answer the question but the village clerk could.

NOT ACCEPTED
Neither the questioner nor many members of the audience would accept Commissioner Boas's proposal of having the clerk answer.

With shouts of "No—No—No," approximately 35 members of the audience walked out of the hall.

LET'S GO HOME
"Come on let's all go home—let's wash—let's wash—let's wash what they are talking about," were among the shouts made by the departing ratepayers.

Village chairman J. H. Larocque adjourned the meeting shortly after the outburst. Sidney village clerk A. W. Sharp explained after the meeting the technical clause referred to by Mr. Heward is mandatory to be written in such bylaws by government regulation.

Factionalism Scored For Executive Switch

PORT ALBERNI — The former president of the Social Credit association here has blamed "factionalism" for the weekend change in top executive positions.

Doris Fitzgerald said both he and treasurer Gus Prigat had told the association, both in membership and executive meetings, "we would pull out because of factionalism."

He said the financial records of the association have been audited regularly, and the membership has been welcome to look them over at any time.

He said the federal and provincial Societies are following different lines, and blasted a lack of leadership in both federal and provincial riding associations in B.C.

Gold River Fire Quenched by Rain

GOLD RIVER—The danger is over for this new townsite, as rain put the damper on a dangerous forest fire.

The fire had covered 2,000 acres, burned out bridges on the Nimpkish Road, and was just one mile from the new Tahsis Company townsite when Tuesday night's rain began to fall.

A company official said, "It's a welcome relief. The forest was hot and dry, we just barely had the situation under control."

Loggers are now back at their regular jobs.

If They Wish to Vote

Non-Property Owners Must Register Today

Today is the last day for non-property-owning Victorians to register at city hall if they wish to vote in the municipal elections in December.

Owner-electors are automatically on the voters' list but others are required to make a declaration that they are 21 years of age and British subjects. The city clerk's office, where the declarations are made, points out that all Canadian citizens are British subjects although not all British subjects are Canadian.

A resident-elector must have lived in the city for six months and a tenant-elector, whether person or corporation, must have occupied property in Victoria for six months prior to registration. City hall closes at 5 p.m.

Tree Farm Is Altered

ZEBALLOS — Tahsis Company's tree farm licence here has been extended. But in a surprise move, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston ruled out more than half the 100,000 acres requested by the company.

Tahsis wanted the timber to help support its 750-ton kraft pulp mill being built at Gold River.

Mr. Williston rejected Tahsis' bid for 35,300 acres of timber in the Gold River-Grise Creek area.

He eliminated 16,300 acres in the Upper Arthurs for the same reason, but added about 48,400 acres in the Zeballos area.

In lieu of the 51,000 acres he eliminated from the application, Mr. Williston added four small parcels along the western boundary of Tahsis' present licence.

Tahsis president J. V. Christensen said the terms were "a complete surprise." He said the company had never even considered the four smaller areas. "We will give the decision our best attention," he said.

Lesage Arrives

REGINA (CP) — Quebec Premier Jean Lesage was met by four members of the Saskatchewan cabinet Wednesday night as he arrived here for a one-day visit.

Economist Says:

Guaranteed Pay Must in Our Time

Everyone should have an adequate guaranteed income whether he works or not, economist Robert Theobald told a conference of the American Public Welfare Association in Victoria Wednesday.

Such a measure is the only answer to inevitably increasing unemployment caused by automation, he said.

NOT FORCED
"At a time when the machines can turn out production for everybody, it is no longer necessary to force people into factories, or into offices, or into jobs unless they want to carry out this type of activity," he said.

He was featured speaker at the conference, held in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Theobald, a noted expert in his field, said that President Johnson's efforts to increase employment by stimulating consumption will have the opposite effect.

He said: "In the relatively near future, those who need to expand their plant to meet created demand will choose to buy machines rather than hire men."

FORCED TO CLOSE
"The machines they buy will be produced predominantly by other machines."

"The new machines purchased will be so much more efficient than earlier machinery that large numbers of existing firms using older machinery and thus employing many men will be forced to close down. They will be too inefficient to compete."

LONDON (CP)—Rhodesia's diplomatic brinkmanship was discussed by British cabinet ministers Wednesday amid new speculation that Premier Ian Smith may be moving closer to a unilateral declaration of independence.

Picketed

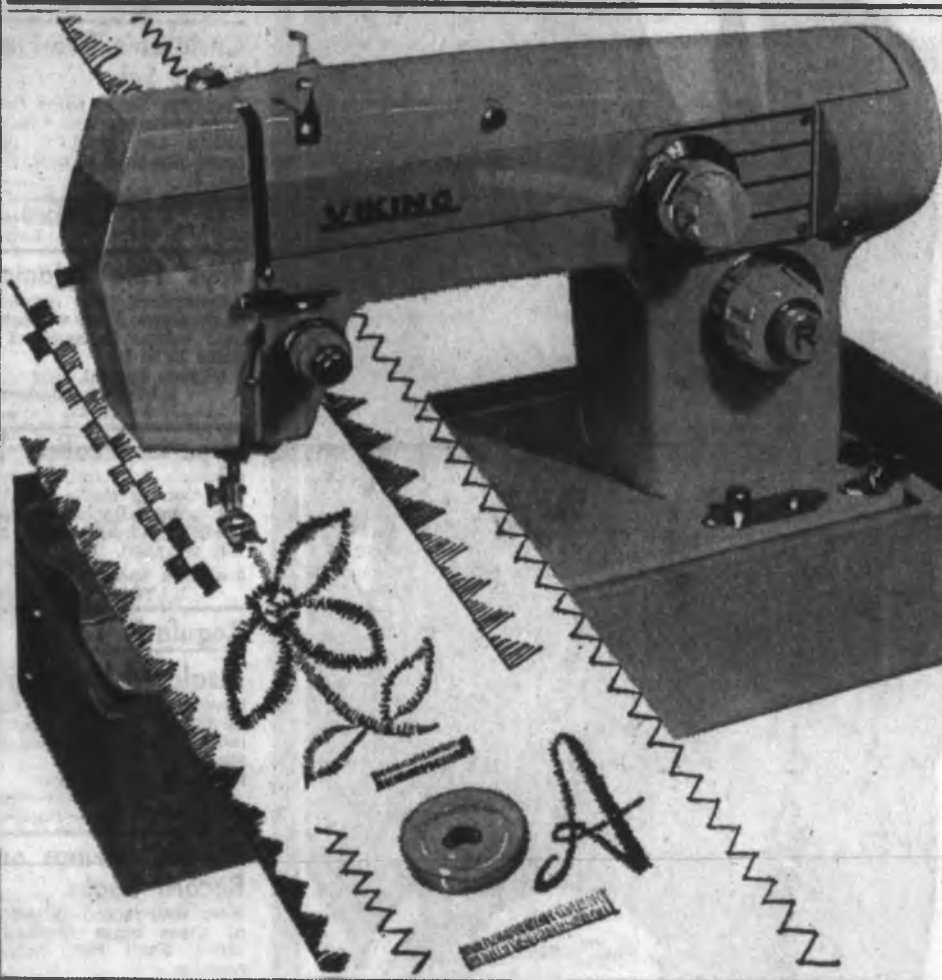

While 30 Ottawa and Washington-based military and naval attaches from 18 countries enjoyed reception and buffet dinner at HMCS Naden Wednesday, small group of Peace Action League members, sang and picketed in shadow of Imperial Inn where attaches are staying.

Eyes School Board Job

Former Sooke school trustee Fred Boulter, who resigned last August in protest against alleged harassment of school boards by civic and provincial governments, said Wednesday he would accept re-appointment. "The board knows my position," he said.

Boys Still Superior In Tracking In Dirt

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Co-education or separated sexes—which is better for Grade I?

Principal Len Fowles of North Kamloops Elementary School hopes to find the answer. His Grade I students have been divided into a room of boys only, a room of girls only and a room of boys and girls.

About all that is really clear after the first month is that it's easy to tell the all-boys' classroom—from the amount of dirt they track in.

Stories of Jail Brutalities Not Lies Says Ex-Prisoner

DURBAN (AP) — Allegations of brutalities in South African jails were involved in the trial Wednesday of a former political prisoner, Robert Harold Strachan.

He pleaded not guilty to three charges of perjury and publishing false information about prison conditions.

The trial arises from a series of articles published earlier this year in the Johannesburg Rand Daily Mail.

A police officer testified to a statement which he said Strachan had given to him voluntarily in Durban.

In this statement, read to the court, Strachan told of how he had given a Rand Daily Mail reporter Benjamin Pogrand details of his prison experiences. In his statement to the police, Strachan said the information he had given Pogrand was true and correct and that he adhered to it.

A Durban lawyer testified to a statement brought to him by Strachan and Pogrand having been attested before him.

Prelate Bringing Orders

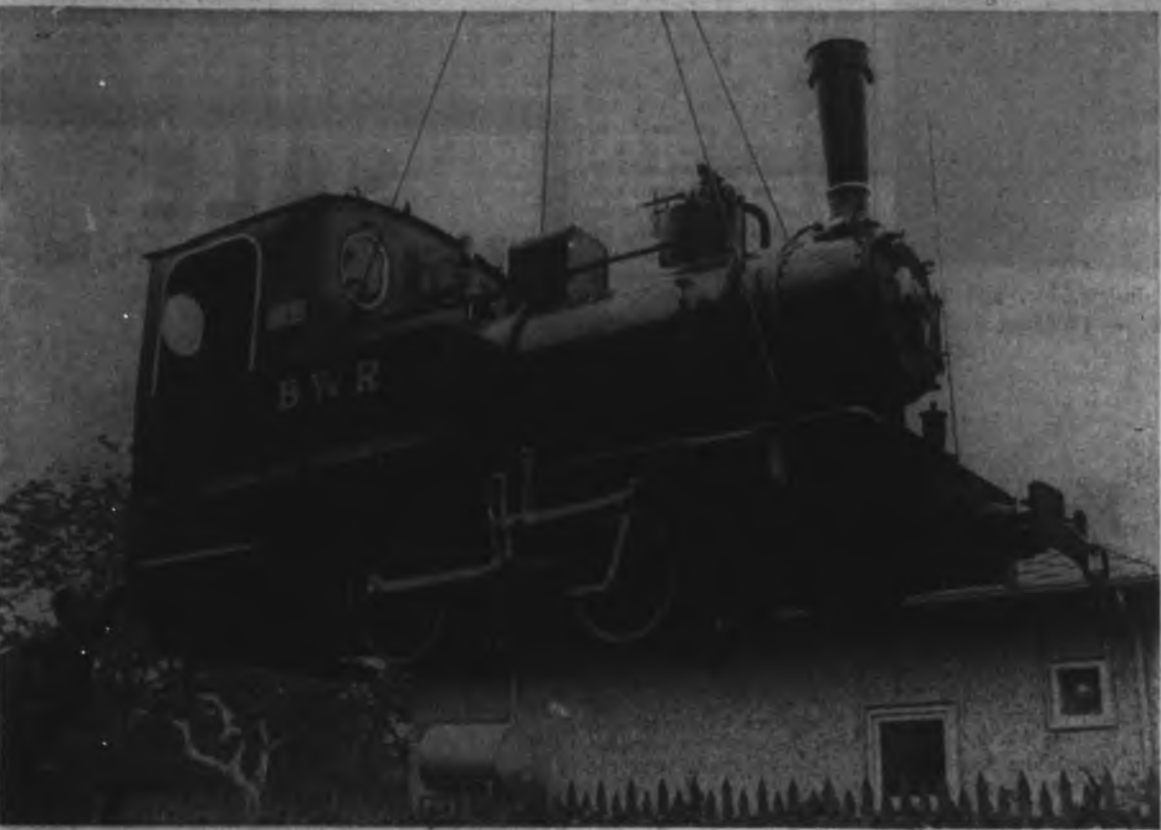

Old Church Backs Nuns

The domestic prelate of the North American Old Roman Catholic Church says he will fly to British Columbia Monday to confer with nuns engaged in a battle with the Roman Catholic Church over an animal shelter.

Rev. Gerard Greeley said in Old Bridge, N.J., Wednesday night he had conferred by telephone with Mother Cecilia Mary in Victoria, after she announced her decision to leave the papal church.

Magr. Greeley said his church originated among Catholic clergymen in France in the 17th century. He said it does not recognize the Roman Catholic hierarchy or the doctrine of the Pope's primacy or infallibility.

He said he had been asked to undertake the mission by Archbishop Cyrus Starkey, primate of the church in North America. Archbishop Starkey lives in Moorestown, N.J.

Three-Ballot Battle at Big Meeting

Former Navy Chaplain Wins City Tories' Vote

By IAN ARROL

Rev. Clifford Waite, who retired last week from the navy as a chaplain in order to seek the Progressive Conservative nomination for the federal constituency of Victoria, won the nomination early today over three other contestants.

Runners-up were the 1964 Progressive Conservative candidate, Eric Charman.

Three separate ballots were necessary before a winner was declared.

113 VOTES

The results of the third ballot, announced from the platform of the Empress Hotel ballroom, at 12:25 a.m. today gave Waite 113 and Charman 75, with a total of 192 votes cast. One was spoiled.

The first ballot at 10:10 p.m. gave Waite 70, Charman 64, Rev. J. A. Roberts 57, Foster Leherwood 24, spoiled three. Total 218.

Although accredited delegates numbered 218, the total of supporters, interested observers — and delegates — numbered 325.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

Many veteran observers felt this to be a record attendance in at least the recent history of Victoria Conservative federal nominating conventions.

Thetis Lake

New Locks

Parks Administrator Herbert Warren said Wednesday that new locks will be placed on the gales in Thetis Park to avoid recurrence of the "locked gate incident."

Park gates were locked last Sunday when several people sought admittance to the park. Mayor Wilson notified them at the gate and asked for an explanation at a subsequent committee meeting.

Officials said someone with a perverted sense of humor apparently obtained a key to the padlock on the park gate and locked it on this occasion and on several others as a prank.

missions as an observer in Halifax bombers. He holds the DFC. He has been a school teacher, and has a Master of Education degree. Other experiences have included hard rock mining and working on a railway section gang.

Former external affairs minister Howard Green was present and called the convention "the finest I have ever attended."

He called on Prime Minister Pearson to "quit hiding under the bed and come out onto the hustings."

Mr. Green charged that Liberal policies were not for B.C., but for other parts of Canada.

He criticized Mr. Pearson for policies of disunity. "You can't have a nation that is made up of two states. An alliance of associated states would be no longer Canada."

"What is needed is a confederation conference to try to get this problem ironed out."

Ship Society Plans Meeting

World Ship Society, Victoria branch, holds its monthly meeting in new quarters at the B.C. Maritime Museum, Bastion Square, at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Visitors are welcome. A film on whaling will be shown.

ONLY 1,300 VOTES

At the last federal election in 1964, only 1,300 votes separated Mr. Groos from the Progressive Conservative candidate at that time, Eric Charman.

The new Conservative candidate has been chaplain of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron at Esquimalt for the past two years. He was general chairman of the Victoria committee of the recently-concluded Leighton Ford crusade in the Memorial Arena.

Mr. Waite is a veteran of the Second World War, having joined the RCAF in 1941 flying 36

Princess Mary's Challenge

Mayor Wilson and members of city council will bar the way when members of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) march through city streets Saturday with bayonets fixed, drums beating and colors flying.

Perpetuating a custom common in Britain, 'The Challenge' will be made to the regiment. By reason of the fact, however, that the Canadian Scottish has been granted the freedom of the city, the regiment will be allowed to proceed.

The ceremony will be one of three important events affecting the unit on Saturday which has been proclaimed Regimental Day.

The challenge will be issued, a marked will be unveiled in Beacon Hill Park and the unit will receive a new commander.

When the parade halts at city hall the city clerk, Morran Walker, will call on the commanding officer Lt.-Col. M. W. E. Allen to identify himself and ask him by what right he marches through the city with bayonets fixed.

Col. Allen, carrying a scroll giving the regiment the freedom of the city, will give the proper response after which the mayor will give the regiment permission to continue the march.

At Beacon Hill Park Frank MacKenzie Ross, former lieutenant governor and honorary colonel of the regiment, will unveil a granite marker commemorating the 1962 presentation of new colors to the regiment by the late colonel-in-chief, Princess Mary, the Princess Royal.

At this time the area commander, Col. D. H. Rochester, will officiate at a change of command ceremony. New CO will be Lt.-Col. D. R. Coell, formerly second-in-command.

In addition to the uniformed troops, veterans from several local organizations will march in the parade.

The park ceremony will be held at Royal Parade Square which is at Douglas and Niagara Streets.

Rithet Land Bought For 'Uplands' Project

By JIM BRAHAN

A multi-million-dollar Uplands-style development which will eventually house 6,000 people is planned on the Rithet property at Royal Oak, Victoria developer Gordon Rolston said Wednesday.

Officials of the development had not arrived at any close figures but estimates for development were set at "upward of $50,000,000."

The sale of the 713-acre tract was announced simultaneously by J. R. Genge, president of Rithet Consolidated Ltd.

PRICE SECRET

The site, largest area of undeveloped land remaining close to the centre of Victoria, was bought for an undisclosed sum by Broadmead Farms Ltd., a land development syndicate, of which Mr. Rolston is a member.

"We will be carrying out one of the largest residential projects in the country, in terms of area, number of homesites, and complementary community services," Mr. Rolston said.

NATURAL BEAUTY

"We feel this opportunity carries with it responsibilities beyond those of normal development projects and we believe that, when we are ready to announce complete details, the project will win the wholehearted approval of all concerned," he said.

The project will take 10 to 15 years to complete, and the natural beauties of existing trees and rocks will be preserved, he said.

BASIC PLAN

Mr. Rolston said plans are well advanced.

"This is the culmination of five years of work," he said. "Engineering and survey work is now underway at the site."

The basic plan calls for a contour rather than a grid system, which according to Mr. Rolston, will provide maximum interest and landscaping potential for individual properties and at the same time provide people driving through with attractive, and in many cases beautiful scenery.

SPRING START

According to the developers, the first portion of the plan will be put into operation before next spring, and a definite date for work to begin will be announced as soon as detailed planning has been completed and approved by Saanich municipality.

Volleyball

Board Grants Leave

Greater Victoria School Board changed its mind Wednesday and allowed teacher Donald Smyth five days leave of absence to accompany touring Russian Olympic volleyball teams in October.

The board turned down another application for three weeks leave of absence by teacher Charlotte Pearson, 3485 Henderson, who wanted to accompany her husband on a business trip to Europe.

REJECTED

Mr. Smyth, president of the Canadian Volleyball Association, had his first application rejected Sept. 20. The board felt that leave would set a precedent, and noted that Mr. Smyth, a biology teacher, would be hard to replace.

Sports groups in Greater Victoria protested the decision.

SWITCH STAND

Russian and U.S. men's and women's teams will play exhibition games here Oct. 15, then head eastward on tour. Mr. Smyth will be Canada's representative with the Russians.

"I'm very happy," he said late last night. Mr. Smyth paid tribute to the board for having the courage to change its mind.

Feted at Banquet

Couple Wed 53 Years

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Webb, 1342 Trans-Canada Highway, celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary and in honor of the occasion attended the recent banquet put on by the Canadian Restaurant Association in the Empress Hotel. They were special guests of their son, Mr.

William Webb, who is president of the Victoria Branch CRA, and his wife. The Webbs were married at Holy Trinity Church, Winnipeg, Man., on Sept. 25, 1912. They moved to Victoria in 1938.

Mr. Webb, who was born in Stratford, Essex, England, is a former linotype operator and is the proud owner of a 50-year ITU pin. During the years he worked on a number of newspapers including the former Regina Leader and the old Regina Province, Winnipeg Free Press and Winnipeg Tribune.

In Victoria he followed his trade working for the Queen's Printer, the Daily Colonist and as a printer with Mr. Harold Diggon for 20 years before retiring.

Mr. Webb is a past master of the Masonic Lodge while his wife, who was born in Winnipeg, is a past matron of the Order of Eastern Star. They are both fond of dogs and have been raising collies for the past 45 years. In December, 1958, Mrs. Webb received a special award from Dog World for her "outstanding service to dogs."

The couple has another son, Lt.-Col. Frederick Webb, (Ret'd) RCN, and four grandchildren, AB Frederick Webb, RCN, Miss Merle Webb, a former Miss Victoria, and the Misses Constance and Liane Webb.

Arctic Restaurant Operated by Woman

AKLAVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — "The juke box darn near drove me out of my mind until I got used to it."

Jeannette Gauthier, wife of a northern affairs department shop carpenter, had to get used to many things when she opened the only restaurant in this Arctic community.

The Eskimo, Indian and white teenagers who frequent her cafe play the juke box frequently, she says. "It's very, very popular."

Mrs. Gauthier also has some unusual problems.

She has to buy enough supplies from Edmonton wholesalers to last through the winter until the first barge arrives in the spring. Aklavik is on the Mackenzie delta 1,200 miles north of Edmonton.

And Mrs. Gauthier has to contend with muck trekked into her cafe from the community's unpaved streets and boardwalks. "I wash the floor three times some days."

Mrs. Gauthier, who has four of her six children still at home, went into business when she found she had too much time on her hands.

"Cooking was the only thing I figured I could do."

She leased part of the former RCMP barracks, paid $15 to obtain a territorial restaurant licence and set up business in the former kitchen.

Mrs. Gauthier, who employs five residents and has also started a bakery, keeps the cafe open from 7 a.m. to midnight. She enjoys it so much she says she plans to put in more booths soon.

Uplands Harvest Bridge

The ladies of Uplands Golf Club held their annual Harvest Bridge party at the clubhouse on Tuesday.

Mrs. K. Dawson, ladies captain, was assisted by Mrs. V. Hicks, vice captain, in welcoming the guests.

The foyer and lounge were decorated in the autumn theme. Large copper urns were filled with foliage in glowing shades of orange, yellow and brown. Colorful fruits and vegetables cascaded from a horn of plenty made a striking display, and large bowls of yellow and rust chrysanthemums carried out the fall theme.

Mrs. B. Price and Mrs. H. McWilliams were in charge of the decorations.

Helping to serve were members of the ladies committee, Mrs. B. Price, Mrs. M. Allen, Mrs. W. Herbert, Mrs. J. Riddell, Mrs. H. McWilliams, Mrs. A. Nugent, Mrs. G. Silburn and Mrs. T. Liddell.

Autumn Colors Theme At Brentwood Wedding

A wedding of wide interest in Brentwood Bay and Victoria was solemnized at the Brentwood College Memorial Chapel when Linda June Andrew, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Andrew of Vander Avenue, Brentwood, became the bride of Mr. Richard John Tyre, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tyre, 1806 Bay Street.

Archdeacon E. H. Maddocks and Rev. George Harrington officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Shades of autumn were predominant in the church decorations of bronze and gold chrysanthemums lining the aisle and at the altar.

Mr. Les Salmon was organist.

Entering the church on the arm of her father the bride made a lovely picture in her elegant floor-length gown of white satin fashioned with rly point sleeves and portrait neckline. The gown's fitted midriff opening into a soft, full skirt and her hand-rolled cathedral veil of silk and Chantilly lace was held by a crown of seed pearls and crystals.

The bride carried a spray of orchids on a white ribbon which was a gift from her cousins in England sent especially for the occasion. Her jewelry was a necklace of pearls, gift of the groom, and for "something old" she wore her grandmother's engagement ring.

Maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Stansby, and bridesmaids, the Misses Wendy Martin and Pat Tyre, sisters of the groom, wore a floor-length gown of tangerine peau de soie fashioned with full skirts and portrait necklines. Their shoulder-length veils en train were held in place by crystal and seed pearl tiaras, and they carried cascade bouquets of yellow roses and lily.

The little flower girls, Miss Nancy Gibson, bride's cousin, and Miss Joane Tyre, groom's sister, were in tangerine silk shot with silver gowns in floor-length style featuring puffed sleeves and wide collars embroidered with yellow, brown and green flowers. They wore head bands of orange and yellow chrysanthemums, and carried matching floral baskets.

Mr. Harold John Whitla was best man. Ushering guests to their pews were Mr. Bill Chatterton and Mr. Lloyd Wood. The same lovely autumn colors used for the wedding theme were carried out in the decorations at the reception which followed in Holmwood House. Mr. Noel Andrew proposed the toast to his niece.

For a honeymoon through the interior of the province and Alberta the new Mrs. Tyre chose a tangerine wool suit for her going-away outfit. A beige hat trimmed with tangerine, beige gloves and brown accessories complemented her ensemble.

The newlyweds will make their home in Brentwood.

Telegram of best wishes were received from relations in England, Mr. and Mrs. C. Thomas, Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bannister, Northam, and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Hoxey, Hastings.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. Scriven, Somerset, England; Mr. and Mrs. D. Tyre and Mr. and Mrs. R. Leader Enrolls Rangers

Mrs. John Richards, ex-captain of the 11th Victoria Girl Guide Company, and Mrs. R. F. Peel were enrolled as Rangers by Mrs. W. S. Emmerton, area commissioner who is also a Ranger, in an impressive ceremony at Memorial Hall.

Guides of the 11th Company assisted in the ceremony observing first hand the working of the Guide Patrol system as applied to adults. Mrs. Richards was presented for enrolment by her patrol leader, Mrs. C. Reynolds, district commissioner. Mrs. S. C. Randall, district commissioner, presented Mrs. Peel who was a Brown Owl in her district.

Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Peel are to be captain and lieutenant, respectively, of a new Cadet Company. Their organizational meeting takes place on Oct. 7 at the home of Mrs. Richards, 1134 Rockland Avenue. Cadets, new to Victoria, are girls 16 and over who wish to train for active adult roles in the movement.

Married at St. Joseph's

Miss Geraldine Elaine Thompson and Mr. David Victor Bouchard exchanged vows and rings recently in St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Monsignor M. T. O'Connell celebrated the nuptial mass for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thompson, 535 Tait and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bouchard, Radville, Sask.

The bride who walked to the altar with her father wore a gown she designed and made herself. Of patterned brocade the floor-length gown was A-line style with empire waistline, lily point sleeves and scoop neckline.

A full, sweeping train was attached to a satin waist band with back bow. Her finger tip bouffant veil was something borrowed, her garter, something blue and a pearl pin loaned by Miss Alice Pye, something old. Red roses and stephanotis were in her bouquet.

Caroline Thompson who wore a short, bouffant skirted dress in pale blue with a circle of white carnations in her hair carried her sister's train.

Mr. Darrell Barnett of Duncan was best man and brothers of the bride, Arthur and Gordon Thompson acted as ushers.

During the signing of the register, the bride's uncle, Mr. Mark Holloway, accompanied by Mrs. L. Gill, sang "A Wedding Prayer".

The reception was held in the church hall which was decorated in pink and white.

For a motor trip to the United States the bride wore yellow and mint green tweed suit with toyne accessories and red rose corsage.

The young couple are living at 3488 Lovat Avenue.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Mark Holloway, Mrs. Jean Caldwell and son, Ray, Mrs. Joseph Spradovskis, Vancouver; Mr. Gene Bouchard, Ladner, B.C. and Mrs. Stuart Simpson, Duncan.

OTTAWA (CP)—Never underestimate the power of the women.

That is what leaders of women's political organizations are saying as they get ready to play an active part in the federal election campaign.

Mrs. J. O. Asselin of Montreal, national president of the Women's Liberal Federation of Canada, said here recently.

"The Liberal women of Canada are going to give Prime Minister Pearson the majority government he wants. We hold the balance of power."

Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Smith of Kelowna, B.C., national president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association, said during a visit to Ottawa just after the election was called:

"Our women are well organized, and have been since the last election. They're ready to go out there and win."

And Eva Latham, women's director for the New Democratic Party, puts it this way:

"We're more ready now than we've ever been for an election campaign."

In Calgary, the national president of the Social Credit Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. L. F. Smith, is planning a campaign in the western provinces, a party spokesman said.

Mrs. Asselin, whose two sons Edmund and Patrick were members of the last Parliament, says her Liberal women's organization is the biggest of all the women's political groups with about 75,000 members. But the Progressive Conservatives also estimate their "woman-power" at 75,000 members.

The Socialists, who organized women's auxiliaries in 1961 had about 187 local groups and 3,800 members at that time. They say the number has probably risen slightly since then.

The NDP women's section which probably operates more closely within the main party framework than the others is organized in local committees rather than in clubs.

Mrs. Asselin told an interviewer during a break in committee meetings here Tuesday she thinks women are not given enough opportunity to participate in the policy-making discussions of the Liberal party.

"There is an unfortunate feeling that whatever a woman can do a man can do better."

Mrs. Smith who was elected head of the Conservative women in 1963 says they have full and equal rights in the policy discussions of the party.

Miss Latham—who started getting NDP women members ready for the election in July by issuing a five-page bulletin entitled Election in Sight, says women are among the most vocal members at policy discussions.

IODE Plans Festival

Mrs. B. Shaw, services at home and abroad secretary reported at the recent meeting of Municipal Chapter IODE that goods to the value of $270 had been sent to the Korean project.

Mrs. C. E. Beirnes, immigration and citizenship convener, reported 29 new Canadians had been presented with certificates at a recent ceremony in the Court House.

A detailed account of the forthcoming IODE Festival for 1966 to take place in February, was presented by Mrs. Harold Menzies.

Also heard at the meeting presided over by Mrs. Elsie Lowthian, regent, was a report by Miss Christine McNab on a project to be sponsored by the Chapter in connection with centennial celebrations in 1967.

Mrs. Lowthian was named delegate to the semi-annual meeting to be held in North Vancouver, Oct. 18.

MONTREAL, September 30th — There's no need to let your work suffer because of rheumatic, arthritic or neuritic pain. This letter tells you why:—Mr. Francis Smith of Vancouver writes, "I have suffered a great deal from lumbago. I am a carpenter and the pain made it hard for me to bend or stoop. I have tried everything and have found that nothing compares with Teraplast's TBC's for quick and satisfactory relief. Do try TERAPLAST'S TBC's if you suffer in this way. And for even faster, DOUBLE ACTION relief, apply Teraplast's FLAME-cream Liniment (in the handy, roll-on applicator bottle) externally, when you take TBC's internally."

"JEEPERS CREEPERS — Bargain Sleepers" — that's how CN advertises low-priced "Dormette" accommodations, available on its crack Super Continental, Panorama, Ocean Limited and Scotian. It certainly is fun to sleep the miles away in a "Dormette" — especially because these cosy upper and lower berths are less costly than other types of sleepers, and another big CN plus is included — delicious complimentary meals in the dining car, cafeteria or coffee-shop car. A "Dormette" trip is the most economical way to travel these days either on your own or with the family. (And the family can get extra savings just by sharing sleeping accommodations). The "Dormette" — as they say in show biz — is the "sleeper" of the year!

When the saleslady held up Cameo "Little Nothing" in new Cantreese nylon, I almost laughed. What a funny, crinkly stocking. But when I stretched it on, "Little Nothing" was suddenly made-to-measure. Not a wrinkle or sag. Just fit, fit, fit, with no let-down. (And/me, the original baggy-stocking girl.) Soft matte finish. And sheer like crazy. Now I have a complete "Little Nothing" wardrobe. Plainstitch. Mesh.

And a wicked nude heel. (The baggy-stocking girl is gone for good.)

Honestly, Cameo, where have you been all my life?

Women of Eastern Europe Wearing Western Styles

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — They're not the latest from Dior or Norell, but the clothes the women from Communist east Europe now wear are strictly western in mood.

Pictures of the latest in vogue in Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania and even in East Germany show no hemlines inches above the knees. But they do show skirt lengths a western-fashionable knee height. There are skinny, straight slacks inspired by Andre Courreges, the young influential of the Paris couturier. And, the skimmer and shift dresses with narrow, often belted lines — the "Ford" (best sellers in the United States) — also show behind the iron curtain.

What today's citizens of the eastern European countries are wearing is featured in a special report by Radio Free Europe. The report is based on RFE's monitoring of the Communist press and radio.

Along with those skimmers and shifts, basic parts of the east European women's wardrobe are simple skirts, straight or pleated, with shirtwaist blouse or sweater. Knitted goods, especially those with some mixture of synthetic fabrics which require little care, are becoming increasingly popular.

"Although 'East European' traditionally calls up the image of a man in a hopelessly square jacket and flowing trousers, it is not uncommon today to see young men in Bulgaria and Romania dressed in short-jacketed suits with sloping shoulders and narrow trousers, which obviously reflect an Italian influence," RFE found. "Farther north, one can see British and French influence in a better fit at the waistline, slimmer lapels, narrow cuffs and less shoulder padding."

Women's shoes in particular have undergone a big evolution in the last five years, said the report. They compare favorably with French, Italian or U.S. designs — with slim heels, two-tone trim, slings and T-strap.

"But," it added, "women have waited so long to get shiny shoes again, that they are likely to look askance at the low, flat heels and rounded toes which are being touted on the international fashion scene."

new attitude toward fashion became apparent about a decade ago, RFE said. Communist newspapers and magazines began attacking "the doctrine that a good Communist must be drably dressed and argued that the workers and their wives had a right to well-designed clothes."

"And despite the chronic shortage of newsprint, they once again began publishing women's pages, devoted partially to fashions . . ."

The shortage of money and goods still is acute by western standards, but today, "poor quality clothing has become a drug on the market and fashion-consciousness has spread from the urban elite down through to the factory worker and the collective farm peasant," the report said.

Where other than from newspapers do the Communists learn of western fashions? Well, in Budapest, the word gets around from Klara Rothschild, who even when travel restrictions were tight was permitted to go abroad to study trends.

Mme. Rothschild, however, caters to those who can pay, customers even from London. She runs Budapest's Haute Couture salon, which attracts New York.

Relish Craft

HALIFAX (CF)—Alison Heary, handicrafts director for Halifax schools, says her subject teaches neatness and dexterity and is not an educational "frill." The pupils love it, she says. "When I come into the classrooms, the children's faces shine and sometimes they clap with anticipation."

#4 DELTA RICE POT LUCK SPECIAL cabbage rolls & rice casserole

The new cabbage crop is in . . . and here's your opportunity to discover DELTA LONG GRAIN RICE, the flavour secret for this quick, delicious main-dish casserole. Nothing is easier to use than versatile Delta Rice. Always fluffy, every grain stays separate — never breaks down.

CABBAGE ROLLS AND RICE CASSEROLE

Basic Ingredients
8 large outer cabbage leaves
1 cup cooked Delta Long Grain White Rice
1 lb. ground round steak
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar

Preparation
Wilt the cabbage leaves in boiling water. Combine meat, onion, rice and half of the salt and pepper. Form into 8 portions. Place one on each cabbage leaf, roll securely and fasten with toothpicks. Place in heavy skillet. Add tomato juice, sugar, vinegar and remainder of salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about one hour.

Variations: Try these intriguing and challenging variations of our basic recipe. For the meat, use ground beef, pork (or a combination of the two), lamb or ham. The seasoning may be salt and pepper or you can add cayenne, paprika or a dash of nutmeg or 2 tablespoons of cream of mushroom soup mix (dry) or 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning. For the liquid use tomato juice, or combine 2 cans tomato sauce with one of water, or one cup tomato soup with 1/2 cup of milk. Use brown sugar instead of white. Try adding 1/4 cup of cottage cheese and 1/4 cup minced celery to meat mixture. Or combine 1/2 cup dairy sour cream to the cup of tomato soup to make the liquid. All variations can be baked at 350 degrees or simmered in a covered skillet for about an hour. But for best results always use Delta Long Grain Rice. These recipes are not suitable for instant pre-cooked rice.

President's Plans Secret On Impending Royal Visit

By ARON MACKENZIE
WASHINGTON (CP) — Washington society, sharply rationed this year in the supply of foreign visitors, is looking toward November and Princess Margaret.

"We undoubtedly shall make more enemies than friends," sighed a British embassy official conjecturing on just how tour, which will be Margaret's first in the U.S.

Los Angeles, Arizona, Washington and New York are on the itinerary.

Just what role President Johnson will play in the visit of several days here is not known. The president has his own technique for such occasions, usually announced at the last moment. But Washington's social set just can't imagine the president not seeing the princess and the Earl of Snowden, and elder daughter Lynda Baines Johnson has been pondering what swains to take to Princess Margaret parties.

Not that the president has seen many foreign visitors this year.

FOUR VISITS

The number of state visits totals only four so far in 1965 — Japan, South Korea, Upper Volta and Italy. There were 11 in 1963 and 10 in 1964 and the late President Kennedy in fact entertained more foreign visitors in state in two years than President Roosevelt had done in 12 or President Truman in eight.

President Johnson, while believed to fret at the time-consuming protocol involved in state visits, has had excuses in the slow pace of 1965. He has had the Vietnamese war and a huge congressional program to manage. Much of his entertaining has been functional — often on Potomac River boating parties.

There is an impression that visits have been curtailed because Prime Minister Shastri of India and President Ayub Khan of Pakistan were asked to postpone their scheduled visits and it isn't proper to take on other visits until new arrangements have been made.

The state department's protocol division says this is nonsense.

But, anyway, Blair House which is used for state visits and which has recently received an entirely new decor, hasn't had much use.

There has not been a complete drought.

UNOFFICIAL TRIP

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek with a large retinue has been in town as an unofficial visitor who nevertheless has seen a lot of official people and had tea with the president.

Japanese Prince Mikasa, brother of the emperor, had a courtesy reception and Crown Prince Harald of Norway was a September caller.

There has been some speculation that Queen Elizabeth may be considering a visit to Washington next March after a Caribbean visit with Prince Philip — a rumor that the British embassy promptly scotches.

Prince Philip is coming in March for two or three weeks in response to an invitation from Variety Clubs International comprising entertainment-world folk who work for charity and which the prince has supported.

But any hopes that Texas-style hospitality will be showered on the Queen herself are said to have no basis in fact.

Mrs. Brady Wins Oscar

Victoria Toastmistress Club No. 80 held its public relations meeting in the Pacific Club. President Mrs. T. Y. Grant welcomed all present. Lexicology lesson was given by Mrs. F. Hoog and a parliamentary lesson by Mrs. P. A. Petersen.

Toastmistress of the evening, Mrs. C. C. Warren, chose "Communications" as her theme. "The Open door to Toastmistress" was the theme of the evening. Mrs. E. Brady gave a speech on "Tips for Toastmistresses." Dressed in a helmet, fur cape, large handbag, oversized notes and papers, her delivery was hilarious. Purpose of her speech to give future toastmistresses "what to do" in "a what not to do manner." A four-minute speech by Mrs. K. S. Bains was on aspects of International Toastmistress. Mrs. Davies spoke on "Gift of Voice," and Mrs. Speers on "Value of Toastmistress Training in Business."

Miss Donna Koepel was the timer. Vote of thanks was given by Miss Gail Hieban, inspiration and closing thought, Mrs. Geline. Guest critic and evaluator was Mrs. H. P. Mickelson. Table topic "The Oxygen Cocktail" was presented by Mrs. J. J. Wiert.

Spur was won by Mrs. K. E. Bains, and the Oscar by Mrs. E. Brady.

Lists Danger Signs For Women Drinkers

By PATRICIA McORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Any woman who begins to drink to excess should realize that alcoholism is a progressive disease.

Mrs. Marty Mann, who says so, is founder and executive director of the National Council on Alcoholism.

Women account for 1,000,000 of the 3,000,000 alcoholics nationwide. They range from the suburban housewife and the career girl to society matron.

Mrs. Mann says the figures on women are probably understated for they do not include the hidden woman alcoholics. The reason women alcoholics tend to go underground:

Society's attitude toward women drinkers.

"Our society tolerates, often smiles, at the male who can't handle his liquor, but any woman who drinks too much in public or lets herself be seen as automatically disgraced," Mrs. Mann said.

In the beginning the female alcoholic may be able to handle her drinking easily, but over a period of time, she will find that it takes more and more libations to satisfy her.

Eventually, she comes to the point where she loses all control. Mrs. Mann cited the following "danger signals" for women drinkers:

● Gulpng drinks.

● Making promises about drinking, not actually to anyone but to herself. She may promise to "do better next time" or "to be more careful in the future" if her behavior causes any comment or worries her.

● Lying about her drinking — minimizing the number of drinks or concealing the fact that she had any drinks at all.

● Taking a drink before going to a party where there undoubtedly will be drinking, or before an appointment would be automatic.

● Feeling the necessity of having drinks at certain regular times. Sample: A cocktail or two before every lunch; must have drinks after work or before dinner.

● Needing three or four drinks before she can entertain her husband's boss at dinner, or introduce a speaker at the PTA.

● Must have drinks for nerves because of a shattering day at the office, or a frantic day with the children if a home-maker.

● Drinking when blue — forget worries or problems for a while.

● Insisting on drinks with any special event — theatre, concert, baseball game, or even a Sunday jaunt to the woods.

Mrs. Mann said the woman alcoholic differs in certain respects from her male counterpart. Her career as an uncontrolled drinker is much more telescoped, for one thing. And she begins at a later period in life than a man does.

For the man, 10 years of excessive drinking usually is enough to bring him to the early stages of alcoholism.

"For a woman," Mrs. Mann said, "time is much shorter."

CWL

Approve Vanier Fund

Representatives from nine parish councils attended the Victoria Diocesan Council CWL quarterly meeting in the South Saanich Institute Hall. Mrs. W. W. Rogers, president, and hostess, Mrs. J. W. Wheeler, welcomed the guests.

Highlight of the meeting was the institution of a diocesan scholarship.

It was also approved that the Diocesan Council set up a voluntary fund toward the support of the Vanier Institute of the Family.

Mrs. E. V. Jones, convener of resolutions, reported that two resolutions had been sent from the provincial convention to the national: one on the suppression of salacious literature, the other on government assistance in legal expenses in connection with adoptions.

Mrs. J. W. Gibbs, Sidney, convener of Indian missions, reported that canned goods, toys, blankets, curtains and about 250 pounds of clothing have been donated to the missions; and that a gift of $70 helped a talented girl to further her education.

Mrs. Al Lachmuth, Glen Lake, education convener, confirmed her appointment as CWL (diocesan) representative on the Section 150 committee. She informed the meeting that the committee has purchased the film "Perversion for Profit." It is now available without charge to any organization who requests it.

Mrs. C. E. Rivers, child welfare convener, reported four applications for foster children and three for adoptions. Through the kindness of the St. Vincent de Paul Society orthopedic shoes as prescribed by a physician have been obtained for a young boy. Furthermore, a boarding home has been found for this child and his mother.

Mrs. S. Cannon, Nanaimo, convener of report forms, announced that 20 parish councils picked up their report forms at the convention in June. There are still nine sets available.

The following directors attended: Rev. W. H. Bullock, St. Andrew's Cathedral, Victoria; Rev. D. Lehane, Mt. St. Peter's, Nanaimo; Rev. W. J. O'Brien, Our Lady of the Rosary, Langford; and Rev. Bernard Hanley, St. Elizabeth's, Sidney. Very Rev. Paul Monaghan, OMI, diocesan director, addressed the meeting.

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — A life-long fixture of Waterloo primary school is missing this fall. Georgina Laporte has retired after teaching in Shetford County for 51 of the last 52 years. Miss Laporte began in 1908 at a salary of $180 a year, less board and lodging, and was presented with the Order of St. Scholastic Merit in 1959 for outstanding teaching.

This bride in white cotton gown by Hardy Amies has a foretaste of her husband's wardrobe for 1966. Left to right are, a raglan mini-coat with hat in black and white houndstooth check tweed, formal groom's attire, large check cotton raincoat and an "ad lib" suit in brown stretch cloth with tailored waistcoat to allow removal of jacket.—(Fednews Photo)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to thank "Old Timer" for one of the best laughs I've had in weeks. Anyone who would fill out a form for a driver's licence and write beside the word "sex" — "occasionally" must have a terrific sense of humor.

When I was in the hospital having my last baby I had to fill out an insurance form. There was a question worded something like this: "Is this confinement the result of an accident?" I answered "Yes." This reply provided many people in the office with the best laugh of the day.

I come from a family of kidders and I realize how fortunate I was to grow up in a climate of good humor. Life can be pretty grim and a laugh can be a wonderful release for a tension. I've tried to raise my children to appreciate the value of humor. It hasn't been difficult because my husband is a very funny guy. If you ever run into him ask, "How's your wife?" He'll reply "Well, she's better than nothing."

Although your column is filled with good advice I feel that the humor in it is as important as the guidance you give. Keep it up, Ann — SMILE AWHILE. Dear Smile: Thanks for your letter. Now shall we bow our heads in commemoration of all those dear dead jokes that killed vaudeville?

Dear Ann Landers: How much do parents owe their married children? We raised three girls and two boys. It wasn't easy. My husband always made a modest salary and I worked part-time in a cannery factory. Our oldest daughter lost her husband in a mining accident two years ago and came home with her two babies. I take care of her children. Lord knows the poor girl didn't bring this tragedy on herself, but I'm not as young as I used to be and it's hard on me.

Now the real problem: Our younger daughter caught her husband running around and she wants to divorce him and come home with her three children. We were shocked because our son-in-law is such a fine person. After talking with him we learned our daughter has been running around, too.

What should we do? — WORN-OUT MOM AND DAD.

Dear Mom and Dad: Parents don't owe children room and board and maid service when their marriages go sour.

Too often parents inadvertently help break up marriages by letting children know they can always come home if there is trouble. Tell your daughter to get the counsel of a clergyman and straighten her life out.

Senator Starts War With Birch Society

WASHINGTON — Senator Thurmond, the Senate GOP campaign chairman, has declared war on the John Birch Society. He said it's time for Republicans to kick the organization "right square in the tail." The Kentucky Republican, a former Republican national chairman, said the society is "as dangerous as the Ku Klux Klan and the Communist Party."

CALGARY — Charles Edward Stuart, 53, of Black Diamond, Alta., a power company lineman with an accident-free record of 25 years, was electrocuted when he accidentally came in contact with a live 22,000-volt power line, a coroner's jury was told. Mr. Stuart was in line for the company's safety pin.

AUSTIN, Tex. — Actor Zachary Scott, suffering from a brain cancer that cannot be removed surgically or cured with radiation treatments, remains in critical condition.

SANTA ANA, Calif. — Billy Gray, 27, who played Bud in the television series Father Knows Best is reported in "satisfactory" condition in Community Hospital, where he was treated for injuries suffered in a traffic accident.

WASHINGTON — Astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad have returned home, ending a two-week good-will tour of seven nations.

LONDON — American actor Michael Parks was badly bruised and shaken in a car crash but continued after hospital treatment to the studio where he is filming The Idol with Jennifer Jones and John Leyton.

NEW YORK — Ballet master George Balanchine, 61, who came out of a 25-year retirement several months ago, danced the leading part in Don Quixote at the New York City Ballet at Lincoln Centre.

TORONTO — Japan's Prince Mikasa, his wife and his 21-year-old daughter Princess Yasako, arrived here from Montreal to begin a two-day sight-seeing tour.

LONDON — Sir Lionel Denny, 68, a producer importer, will be the next Lord Mayor of London.

Zachary Scott

WASHINGTON — President Johnson turned the White House rose garden into a cultural centre to sign a bill that makes the federal government a multi-million dollar patron of the arts. Taking over a role played by the aristocracy in medieval times — and now carried on by governments in many European countries and the Soviet Union — the administration will be able to pour up to $21,000,000 a year into support of the creative and performing arts and humanities.

ENDAKO — Daniel McMaster, 38, has been charged with capital murder following a shooting in the Burns Lake area. Police said Harvey Franklin Zekie, 27, employee of Endako Mines, was shot to death in the front yard of a home occupied by McMaster.

MOSCOW — Marshal Alexander Vasilevsky, commander of the Soviet forces at Stalingrad during the Second World War, has been awarded the Order of Lenin on his 70th birthday.

COPENHAGEN — King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola of Belgium will pay a state visit to Denmark in February.

SEATTLE (AP) — Nams has gone west for the winter. It was a short trip. The four-ton killer whale, the only one in captivity, was towed in a pen made of submarine netting to a secluded cove in Rich Passage, across Puget Sound about five miles north of Port Orchard, Wash.

MOSCOW — American author Philip Stevenson has died at a hospital in Alma Ata, in Soviet Southeast Asia. Stevenson, 66, wrote under the name of Laurie Lawrence.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Eddie Gribbow, one of the original members of Mack Sennett's Keystone Kops, died in his sleep at 75. He left Vaudeville to join Sennett in 1916 and appeared in comedies featuring the Kops until 1926. His last appearances were in the Joe Palooka movie series.

MONTREAL — Pierre Sevigny says his forthcoming book, contrary to recent reports, does not attack Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker, whom he called "Canada's greatest parliamentarian, most elegant orator, and a good friend of French Canada." He says "malicious reviewers" of his book This Game of Politics are "deliberately misleading" people into thinking it attacks Mr. Diefenbaker.

Congo Rebels Hit

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — Two mercenary-led columns were reported advancing Wednesday over rugged mountainous terrain toward the last rebel stronghold in the eastern Congo after capturing an important town in heavy fighting.

Ancient Mexican Figurines On Display at Art Gallery

A unique display of tiny ancient Mexican figurines awaits the art fancier at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

But in order to see the exhibit before it is packed and shipped away to another exhibition place, visitors to the gallery must hurry as the last showing will be on Sunday.

This particular form of art, pottery with more elaborate styling comes from Colima, on the Pacific Coast of Mexico.

The figures which average six inches high can be roughly split into two groups; symbols relating to religious beliefs and rituals and portraits of events in ordinary everyday life.

Russia Pledges North Viet Aid

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union said today it will continue its "considerable" arms aid to North Viet Nam despite near-freezing Soviet-American relations.

In the bluntest foreign policy speech seen here since the days of ex-Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, Kremlin leader Leonid Brezhnev painted a grim picture of a Russia facing two hostile giants — the United States and Communist China.

Pill Refused Unwed Girls

VANCOUVER (CP) — A University of British Columbia health services official said Wednesday requests from unmarried co-eds for birth control pills are rejected.

Dr. C. A. Brumwell, assistant director, said the health services would give the married co-eds prescriptions for the pills but requests from single co-eds in the past have been turned down.

He was commenting on a report that an official of health services at Brown University at Providence, R.I., gave prescriptions for birth control pills to two unmarried co-eds.

Bailiff Accused of Pushing

Burly 247-pound bailiff Leslie Ironside was accused Wednesday of overusing his weight when he went to a Saanich home to seize furniture.

Petite 18-year-old Donna Mae Nestor, who tips the scales at 107, said he pushed her aside after being told he would have to come back when her parents were home.

She admitted she had called him "a horrible old man."

DENIES INCIDENT

Lawyers in the case today will argue the merits of an assault charge against Ironside, 169 Memorial, who denies the incident.

Ironside Aug. 20 went to the home of George Nestor, 4171 Oakridge, armed with a distress warrant because the family owed two months' rent on their previous home.

"I told him he would have to come back," Miss Nestor told the court, "but he put his foot in the door and said, 'Please step aside.'"

'HE PUSHED ME'

"He pushed me away and I pushed him," she added.

Ironside's lawyer Bob Price asked, "You were aware he was doing his duty?"

"I did not think it was his duty to push me away and come into the house," answered Miss Nestor.

The bailiff had left with a three-piece chestfield suite.

'A LONG TIME'

Later interviewed by Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart, Ironside had said, "I have been in this business a long time. I know what I am doing."

The detective sergeant told court Ironside admitted pushing the girl on the shoulder, saying, "This is the law," and "telling the boys to come in."

Ironside had seen nothing wrong in carrying out the distress warrant when only a young girl was in the house.

DENIES PUSHING

In the witness box, Ironside denied pushing the girl or that he had told the police he had done so. "I pushed the door aside," he said.

He said when Miss Nestor remonstrated, he merely pointed out he had legal access through the distress warrant.

Ironside claimed he had deliberately asked two truckmen, who accompanied him, to witness the serving of the warrant because "it has quite often happened in B.C. that vicious acts have been accused against bailiffs."

Both men gave evidence they saw no assault.

A man lost his car licence for four months in central magistrate's court Wednesday after being convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile.

"It is astonishing how much trouble people can get into driving cars," said Magistrate William Ostler, "and this man has illustrated it very forcibly on this occasion."

In addition to the driving suspension, Wallace Henderson Young, 24, of 3083 Almirals, also was fined $250 and was bound over for six months.

'EMOTIONAL PROBLEM'

The magistrate told Young, who pleaded guilty, a man without healthy interests should not have a car. He added that the man had "a profound emotional problem which he is not facing up to."

Earlier, evidence was given that Young called police assistance when he was unable to get a 14-year-old boy out of his car. The pair had been drinking.

"He called police when he had worked himself into an impossible situation. He can't take any credit for that," said Magistrate Ostler.

Young, he was told, had been under psychiatric treatment.

Banker Charged On Royal Heist

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Charles Kost, 52, described by police as a former Winnipeg bank accountant, was remanded until Oct. 7 Wednesday on charges of attempting to rob a downtown branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Kost was arrested Tuesday after a man threatened to blow up the branch with two Molotov cocktails if he was not given $32,000.

Fouled Flour Claims Seven

SAN JOSE (Reuters) — Food made with contaminated flour caused the death of seven persons Tuesday in the Costa Rican village of Laquesa, near the Panama border. Health authorities have ordered all flour supplies in the region removed from stores. Three weeks ago in another part of the country nine persons died from the same cause.

Illegally selling two bottles of rye to a client cost Melvin Harris, 1222 Gladstone, a $300 fine. The client was a Victoria police officer.

Det. Edward Hardy said Sunday, July 4, another officer rang

Harris' home and as a result met the man at a street location, where he paid $8 for the liquor. Harris' lawyer said the rye had been intended for a picnic that afternoon.

Herbert George Bemister, 2680

Wentwich, was fined $300 and his licence suspended when he was found guilty of impaired driving on Millstream Road Aug. 4.

Honduras Floods Kill 22

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI)—Floods caused by torrential weekend rains killed at least 22 persons in this country and left more than 4,000 homeless, it was reported Wednesday.

Weakened Debbie Now a Gale

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—Tropical storm Debbie dissipated Wednesday into a mass of weakened winds and all warnings were lowered along the hurricane-battered Gulf Coast.

Debbie's winds, once up to 50 miles an hour, dropped to 35 mph and the New Orleans weather bureau said the storm would continue to grow weaker as it moved nearer to land.

A weather bulletin located the poorly downgraded and poorly organized storm about 95 miles south southwest of Mobile, Ala., and said it probably would move into central Alabama today.

Heavy showers up to five inches were expected along the northeastern Gulf Coast through the night, spreading into South Alabama and southwest Georgia Wednesday night and today, the weather bureau said.

Debbie remained stationary most of Wednesday, its winds gradually weakened by a huge mass of cold air.

Although hundreds of residents were evacuated during the two days Debbie threatened the mainland, and thousands were cautioned they might have to leave their homes, the storm actually caused only minor excitement along the coastal regions.

Your furnace needs a check-up: call an Esso Home Heat serviceman

You, your car and your furnace are three mechanisms that benefit from regular check-ups. By an expert. As far as your heating equipment is concerned, look where you will, you can't find a more expert expert than your Esso Home Heat serviceman. Imperial Oil insists that it shall be so. By selecting the best service people in the business (we originated this service, so we had our pick of the crop). By training our servicemen in our own home-heating schools. By insisting that each man keep a complete "case history" of every furnace under his care (your psychiatrist couldn't be more thorough). Your Esso Home Heat serviceman will arrange for your furnace's annual check-up at a time when weather conditions in your area make it most appropriate and convenient. Result: efficient, economical, worry-free home heat, day-in day-out land at night, too!—guaranteed by Imperial Oil. No wonder you have that nice warm feeling when you use Esso Home Heat Service.

27,000,000 Feet Burned

Two Fires Blamed on Hunters

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Outdoors Editor

Hunters have been blamed for two fires which destroyed more than 27,000,000 feet of timber in Vancouver Island forest lands in the past few days.

Biggest fire was in MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. holdings on the side of Mt. Hlusuam in the Kelsey Bay logging division which burned over 1,700 acres.

The other fire burned over two acres of crown timberland in the Shaw Creek area back of Cowichan Lake. It appeared as if a hunter came out of the woods wet, lit a fire and didn't bother to put it out.

Fortunately, a timber cruising party in the area chanced upon the fire before it really got going and it was confined to a small area. Even at that fire fighting cost to the public will be about $2,000.

Fire suppression costs of the Kelsey Bay fire will be about $15,000 plus loss of production time. At the peak of the fire 40 men, three tankers and two cats were employed. Monday 15 men, two tankers and one tractor were still fighting the fire and Wednesday patrols were on the spot.

A Mac-Powell spokesman said that fire destroyed 118 acres of prime timber, 1,900 acres of marginal timber, and 145 acres of second-growth timber.

The spokesman said it is not planned to ban recreationists from the woods because of the fire, but he appealed for more caution in the woods.

Evidence points pretty solidly to hunter carelessness. At noon Friday crews were alerted to a fire and when they arrived it was a one-acre fire. But it was in difficult terrain, up a sidehill which acted like a funnel to fan the fire.

On the road immediately below the fire were spent shells. Leading to the road from the centre of the fire was a trail of blood. Beside the road were entrails and deer antlers.

"It was pretty obvious to us that someone had stood on the road, shot a deer, went up to drag it down to the road to clean it and started the fire by throwing away a cigarette or a match," the spokesman said. The spokesman said the fire was in a non-operational area where the company doesn't stop hunters entering on weekdays.

The fire was started in an area where there was no one employed, but at least one hunter was known to be in the area and known to have bagged a deer. A Pacific Logging Co. spokesman said another hunter left a fire burning in the 19 Creek area around Cowichan Lake, but it was discovered before any damage was done.

Attorney-General to Open Central Court on Friday

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will open the new central magistrate's court in Centennial Square at 4 p.m. Friday.

Because of limited accommodation the affair will not be public.

Mayor Wilson will, as part of the rite, present a gavel and stand to senior magistrate

William Ostler who will sit in the new courthouse from Friday on.

There has been some discussion as to the proper plaque which will be the focal point of the courtroom but, Mayor Wilson said, the matter has finally been settled by the deputy attorney-general, Dr. Gilbert Kennedy, who discussed the matter with Chief Justice J. L. Bird.

Judge Bird pointed out that the magistrate receives decrees under the great seal as do county and superior court judges.

The great seal, done in plaster and enamel, will therefore, be affixed to the wall.

NABOB INSTANT MUST BE GOOD!

Over a million cups enjoyed every week!

A million times a week Nabob Instant brings people delicious, full-bodied coffee flavor and the kind of quality you'd expect from Canada's leading coffee maker. A special, "gentle-ized" drying process makes Nabob the tastiest instant coffee you can buy because it captures all the flavor of coffee beans fresh from the roaster. Nabob is processed in the only instant coffee plant in Western Canada, so it's specially created for western tastes. Try it this week.

Volcanic horror of Mt. Tait

Two Lost

Fleeing Family Burned

By ELINO del MUNDO
(As told to United Press International)

TANAUAN, The Philippines— I was a fisherman by night and a farmer by day planting potatoes and corn on Volcano Island. We will never return to that island again. No force in the world can make us go back.

Look at my back. It is all burned. And look at my wife's body. It is burned too. My eyes are bloodshot and I don't know whether I am going to go blind.

CHILDREN MISSING
I am 49 years old. I have eight children, but there are only six with me now. Two of them, 18-year-old Eileen and 12-year-old Myra, are missing. And heaven knows where they are.

I was home when it all started and my house, which is near the edge of the water, was about 200 yards away from the actual eruption.

I don't know what time it was, but I had just returned from fishing. I had cooked a pot of rice and I was preparing to cook some of the fish I caught.

GIANT FIREBALL
Suddenly, there was a bright illumination coming from behind me, and when I looked out of the window I saw a giant fireball spouting as it came from underwater.

We all got into a banca (small boat) near our house on the edge of the water and pulled away without taking anything else with us except the clothes on our back.

The banca which we took was my neighbor's. He was shouting after me, but I did not mind him.

PADDLED AWAY

All I could think of was our safety. Anyway, he had another banca with an outboard motor on it. Our boat had no motor and we paddled as fast as we could. It must have been an eternity before we reached the opposite side of the island.

All the time we were paddling we felt searing heat behind us. That is why we have burns on different parts of our bodies. We could feel a strong breeze almost brushing us, and somehow we knew that hot lava was also in pursuit of us.

LIKE BOILING POT

When we reached the shore we half walked and half crawled. Everything around was like a big boiling pot. We saw some people about to go to the mainland. And we ran after them. In the confusion and the panic I never knew what happened to my two children.

I have lived on that island for 30 years, but I have made up my mind not to return there again.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly In Place

Do your false teeth annoy you? Embarrass you by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just apply a little PASTERTH to your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No runny, gooey, sticky taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTERTH today at drug counters everywhere. Adv.

where quiet says
"Powered by Ford" says performance

1966 FORD COUNTRY SQUIRE WITH UNIQUE 2-WAY MAGIC DOORGATE

1966 FORD 7-LITRE HIGH PERFORMANCE HARDTOP

1966 FORD GALAXIE 500 XL SPORTS/LUXURY HARDTOP

For 1966...quiet quality powered by Ford

The 1966 Ford is strong, steady, solid—that's what makes it so quiet. New engineering advances give you the strongest body Ford has ever built. A new concept frame "tunes out" road vibrations. Computer-determined body mounting points build a bridge over harshness and noise. The new 1966 Ford rides more silently than any car in its class has ever done before. Indeed, it may be the quietest riding car in the world.

The 1966 Ford features big V-8 performance, with a new 428 cu. in. V-8 leading a list of five V-8's. The 289 V-8 is standard in Galaxie 500 XL and LTD models. And when it comes to economy, Ford's 240 cu. in. Big Six gives you a lively 150 hp for exhilarating performance. New comfort and convenience features like the Silent-Flo ventilation system on 4-door hardtops. New LTD interiors that rival anything on the road for sheer luxury.

What else is new and beautiful in Ford this year? A new Stereo Tape System that plays up to 80 minutes of uninterrupted music from easy-to-load tape cartridges. An exclusive new station wagon Magic Doorgate that works two ways . . . swings out for people, swings down for cargo! A new 7-Litre Series Hardtop and Convertible with 428 cu. in. 345 hp V-8 engine and new front power disc brakes for improved braking.

This is just a sampling of the hundreds of remarkable things you'll find in the beautiful 1966 Ford. Drive one today at your Ford Dealer's. Is the beautiful 1966 Ford really the world's quietest car? Take a test drive . . . and listen to the sound of quality.

1966 FALCON FUTURA WAGON WITH NEW 3-WAY MAGIC DOOR-GATE OPTION

'66 Falcon... value with a lively new look

more strength in the body...
more room in the interior...
thrifter because it's stronger!

The 1966 Falcon has all the zip and style you are looking for, plus typical Falcon economy . . . with more beauty, more strength, more luxury than you'd ever expect in a compact.

Falcon is all-new for 1966. One glance will tell you it has the new lean, low, long-hooded Mustang look. The new longer wheelbase, wider tread and improved suspension make the '66 Falcon the smoothest-riding compact. Falcon's new body is also stronger and tougher.

Falcon's interiors are the roomiest ever—with curved glass side windows for more shoulder room. New body style gives you more head and leg room both front and rear. Wider door openings too! And Falcon's interiors have a new luxury look . . . new courtesy lights . . . new padded dash . . . new instrument cluster. This is the most luxurious Falcon ever!

Falcon '66 offers you a choice of 2- and 4-door sedans, 2- and 4-door wagons and a 2-door Sports Coupe with bucket seats. And best of all—Falcon is still Falcon-low-in-price, still Falcon-thrifty! Basic engine is the lively, gas-saving 170 cu. in. Six. Optional engines are the 200 cu. in. Six (standard on Sports Coupe and wagons), or the big 289 cu. in. V-8.

Test drive Falcon's lively new look today!

1966 MUSTANG GT ULTIMATE PERFORMANCE 342 FASTBACK

'66 Mustang... everyone's favourite fun car

1966 MUSTANG FAVOURITE FUN HARDTOP

3 new models...
more than ever designed to be designed by you!

If you thought we couldn't improve on a winner—try Mustang '66! There's a new grille for a fresh front-end look. New options like the AM Radio/Stereo Tape System. New 5-dial instrument cluster.

But all the features that helped make Mustang a sensational success—like the 200 cu. in. 120 h.p. Six, sporty floor shift, bucket seats and full carpeting are still standard. And for '66 there are even more standard luxury and performance features—including many new safety items.

Want even more liveliness and luxury? Mustang offers plenty! Design your own sports-Mustang with GT options like front disc brakes, 289 cu. in. Cobra V-8, fully synchronized 4-speed manual transmission. If you go for the ultimate in driving convenience and luxury you can have power brakes and steering and a specially elegant interior decor package.

If by some odd chance you haven't driven a Mustang yet . . . do it soon. It's bound to improve your outlook on driving!

1966 FAIRLANE DISTINCTIVELY paneled SQUIRE WAGON

1966 FAIRLANE 500 XL SPORTS/LUXURY HARDTOP

'66 Fairlane...beautifully re-invented

13 new models...
GT's-XL's-Squire Wagon
new power up to 390 V-8...
new comfort: smoother, quieter, roomier...

Fairlane '66 is as tough as ever, thrifty as ever—but with a beautiful difference! For 1966 Fairlane has an all-new look, new room, new performance, new standard features, new luxury models, new sports models—new convertibles, sporty new XL's, high-performance GT's, new Squire wagon.

There are thirteen roomier new Fairlane models. There are convertibles that take your breath away with their looks alone—not to mention their performance. There are hardtops, 4-door sedans and sleek, but practical, wagons—including an elegantly paneled new Squire Wagon.

Fairlane XL is a sports-luxury model with bucket seats and console. Fairlane GT is for performance fans. Standard equipment includes 390 cu. in. 335 hp

V-8 engine, dual exhausts, console-mounted shift lever, GT racing stripes and naturally, bucket seats. Fairlane GTA is the same machine with an all-new Sports Shift Cruise-O-Matic that lets you shift automatically... or manually!

What else is new? Foot-operated parking brake. Keyless door locking. Reversible keys. Suspended accelerator pedal. New Magic Doorgate on wagons. New curved side window glass. New glass rear window on convertibles.

Fairlane for '66 is, indeed, beautifully re-invented. If you have never driven a Fairlane, this one will come as a very substantial surprise. If you know Fairlane, the surprise will even be bigger. See for yourself. Try one today at your Ford Dealer's. And bring the wife and children for the family fun of it.

GO '66 FORD FOR CONVENIENCE AND PERFORMANCE

New Magic Doorgate—swings open for people, swings down for cargo. A Ford exclusive... works like a door for easy access to unique side-facing rear seats, works like a tailgate for easy cargo loading. Standard on Ford and Fairlane wagons, a low-cost option on Falcons.

Ford six cylinder engines lead the industry in economy, liveliness, durability. New modern manufacturing techniques give you more horsepower per pound. The 170 cu. in. 105 hp Six, the 200 cu. in. 120 hp Six and the 240 cu. in. 150 hp Big Six are tops in their class!

Garden Notes

I Didn't Say THAT!

By M. V. CHESNUT

It has been my experience that quite a few of my readers skim through this column and read a lot of things into it that I didn't say at all. For instance, I have had about a dozen letters recently from folks proudly reporting a white zinnia in their gardens, and asking how they go about collecting the $10,000 award I mentioned last spring. The offer I reported was for seeds of a pure white MARIGOLD; white zinnias are a dime a dozen.

By the same token, when I mentioned the fall clean-up of peonies to control botrytis disease—an infection that shrivels and withers the flower buds—a lot of folks went right out and cut their peony plants down to the ground—in midsummer! This will control the disease, true, but there will be no flowers on these plants next year.

Because of this tendency, I am a little worried over the possible reaction to yesterday's column in which I discussed the naturalizing of bulbs in rough grass, in grassed-over orchards, and in the odd corner of the garden. I am afraid some of these impressionable readers will rush right out and start planting daffodil bulbs in the middle of their front lawn, which is not at all a good place for them.

For one thing, if the bulbs are to continue to bloom and to increase year after year, the daffodil foliage may not be cut down until it turns yellow and dies down naturally. This means the lawn cannot be mown until July, and the combination of yellowing and dying daffodil foliage and foot-high grass isn't a pretty one.

You can't spike your lawn with any kind of aerating tool, either, for fear of spearing the bulbs. Nor can you maintain an acid soil reaction, for the acid soil which encourages the growth of the finer and more desirable lawn grasses just isn't the daffodil's cup of tea.

On very large lawns, the naturalized daffodil planting could be confined to the odd corner, of course, but by and large, I think it best to naturalize bulbs only in rough grass in the wild or semi-wild areas or under orchard trees. There are some lucky people who own a piece of open woodland or a thinly-treed grove or copse; such sites are excellent for bulbs. Rough banks or mounds are good too, but avoid marshy hollows or gloomy shade under coniferous trees.

It is important, too, to plant only suitable varieties. Once planted, naturalized narcissi must be left pretty well to their own devices; it is wise, therefore, to stick closely to the tough and hardy kinds that need no pampering.

As a general rule, the closer a variety is related to a "wild" narcissi, the better it is able to look after itself. The wild Lent Lily, Narcissus pseudo-narcissus, is at home anywhere and will spread almost like a weed. This is a tiny plant, hardly more than six inches tall, and not very impressive when compared with our modern cultivated daffs, but massed by the hundreds in the bright sunlight of spring, the picture can be breathtaking.

Two good yellows are the old trumpet Emperor and the large-cupped Sir Watkin. The white and yellow bicolor Empress is a good naturalizer and so is the cream trumpet W. P. Milner. Good whites are Mme. de Graaff, Mitlenne and White Nile, while the small-cupped whites Seagull and Albatross and the orange cups Hades, Lucifer and Damson all stand up well. Some of these are old varieties and not too easy to come by nowadays, being superseded in the stores by more glamorous but not so tough types. At least some of these, though, will be found in any bulb specialist's catalogue.

With a bit of shelter from the worst of the wind, I would be prepared to take a chance on such moderns as the yellow Carlton, Magnificence, Havlicek and Golden Harvest, the white Beauregard and the bicolors Boswin and Spring Glory. My old favorite, King Alfred, is too tall for naturalizing—it blows over too easily in a gale. Most of the double-flowered kinds like Texas are too heavy in the bloom although that cheerful old-timer, Van Slon, is practically indestructible.

Dogmas Outworn

SYDNEY HARRIS

History is filled with awesome ironies—each new trend seems to spring out of its opposite. And, as yet, we are nowhere near reconciling the opposites in our own age.

The United States, for example, is the model of modern capitalism. It is also the prototype of industrialism and technology. One out of every four scientific inventions and medical discoveries in our time has been American.

Yet the cold, implacable fact seems to be that the more technological progress we make, the less capitalistic we are forced to become. This may be the towering irony of the 20th century.

Many predicted (wrongly) that capitalism would die its own grave by increasing poverty and oppressing the masses. Exactly the opposite has happened: the masses have never been better off, in wealth, in health, in public and private services.

This affluence has been the fruit of our technological and industrial system. The population is expanding, urban areas are growing, automation will make many forms of labor obsolete, our broadening educational system is giving new aspirations to millions.

At the same time, the problems generated by these benefits are so vast, complex and interrelated that we are compelled more and more to rely upon the government to administer and regulate them.

All institutions are becoming larger and more centralized, by the sheer added weight of size and numbers. Our major social problems are interlocking—medical care, traffic congestion, water supply, air pollution, poverty and welfare programs, education and employment.

These are some aspects of the enormous genie that capitalism has let out of the bottle and no longer seems able to control. It is not primarily a political matter, but a demographic one: more people, living longer, expecting more, crowded together; outgrowing facilities as fast as they are provided.

Neither the traditional conservatives nor the traditional liberals can cope adequately with these problems, because both are still using an outmoded political framework. We can neither return to 19th century individualism nor embrace the crude socialism of the Marxist doctrinaires. Both dogmas are increasingly irrelevant to the 20th century.

We need a profound and widespread rethinking of our total situation. In the light of the atomic menace, the population explosion, the shattering diminution of time and space in the modern world.

And all we hear are outworn slogans from Moscow to Washington and back.

STAN DELAPLANE Taken for Ride

Happy Birthday, Ha!

Wakened yesterday morning to a clatter of pans in the kitchen. And some language—if I heard right—people used to get their mouths washed out for.

"What do you want for your birthday?" she shouted.

"What kind of question is that?" I said. "I don't even want to THINK about birthdays. Anyway, it's a long way off."

"We have to make plans," she said.

I said: "Give me some coffee. Black."

"I thought we'd give each other mutual presents this year," she said. "A family present. We could have the kitchen painted."

"That's just fine," I said. "Especially since you don't have a birthday for six more months."

"I'm perfectly willing to contribute my birthday present," she said. "We could put in those new spice shelves—the pans are always falling out when I reach for the pepper."

"There's a wonderful arrangement in House and Garden this month," she said. "The kitchen is burnt orange. And the spice cabinet is early New England. It fits in the corner."

I said: "Do you realize what it costs to—"

She said: "I've already called the painter for an estimate. It will be our birthday gift to each other. You don't have to buy me a THING on my birthday."

I said: "That's the funniest story I've heard all year, ha, ha. If I came home without a birthday present—"

She said: "Just get me some little trinket. It's the thought that counts. You'd better get dressed. The painter's coming at 9:30."

I said: "I thought after that last job for us, he'd be in the Mediterranean. On his yacht."

"I want to get YOU some little thing, too," she said generously. "You could use a new tie."

"How about a pass to visit the poorhouse?" I said. "I'd like to get one of the good rooms before they're all gone."

"Now," she said, "who do you want to invite to the birthday party?"

"I don't want a party," I said. "I want to forget it. Do you realize I'll be— Give me some more coffee, will you?"

She poured the coffee and said: "I just want you to have a happy birthday. I've asked the Wispantiches."

I said: "You mean that dumb rabbit who's always talking about the hikes he takes on Sunday? The health food nut?"

"Now don't start that again," she said.

"I thought I'd design the kitchen myself," she said. "We'll have to have that corner taken out to fit the new refrigerator."

"A new refrigerator?" I cried. "What's wrong with this one?"

"It's the wrong color," she said. "Wrong for the new color scheme. So we might as well get a larger one. I saw—"

I said: "Will you kindly tell me where we are going to get the money?"

She said bravely: "If you can't even help on your own birthday, I'll just get it out of household. Somehow."

The painter came and she said: "I'm redesigning the whole thing myself."

The painter looked happy. When a chick does her own designing, it is open season. She gave him the last cup of coffee. She gave me a generous smile.

"It's for his birthday," she told the painter. "I want it to be happy."

DR. STUART ROSENBERG Calls for Change

Science Outruns Ethics

Our science far outdistances our ethics. And not for want of an available code of behavior. We just haven't tried hard enough.

The simple truth stares us squarely in the face: most of us are ethically and religiously illiterate. We mouth religious slogans which we've picked up in our childhood. But we fail to act upon them because we do not really understand them as adults.

Unfortunately, we have learned religion, much as we've learned how to walk—after we absorbed the fundamentals, we stopped thinking consciously about them. As adults, we no more ponder carefully what we mean when we spout religious phrases, than we stop to consider the fluent movement of one foot after the other.

How high would man fly—if at all—had he been content with the childish notions of the physical universe and not reached out for an understanding of its deepest scientific secrets?

How many diseases would he have conquered had he been satisfied to stand pat and accept physical disasters without trying to understand their basic causes?

Could he have split the atom had he not labored to master its mysteries?

We are intrigued by the unknown, goaded to harness it for human use — yet "man, the unknown" still defies human understanding. Our largest question — how to live with ourselves and others — still goes begging.

What can change us? Many say that nothing will. Even if they are right, they are wrong. For if we do not learn how to manage our egos, we will be changed. By our own hands, we will be reduced to a subhuman race, capable of destroying life, and unworthy of defending it.

The vast powers now lurking at the touch of the "ultimate button" can wipe us all away. Truly to be changed, we must consciously evolve into a higher, not a lower form of human being. For this, we must willingly seek to grow up ethically and mature emotionally.

Granted, this sounds too easy, facile, even glib. But until we begin to seek an adult ethic as ardently as we lust for the ultimate weapon, we don't have a ghost of a chance to survive as humans.

Wise hearts and trained minds know this. Clergy and philosophers teach this. Editors write this. But few move out of their skins to live this.

Religions were the first to teach love. But few adults have gone beyond a juvenile understanding of "its truest, deepest significance. Unless we get to the core of its meaning we shall all probably die loving the wrong things, in the wrong ways."

To survive, we need an adult Declaration of Love — one that will educate our hearts as successfully as we have educated our minds.

For those who still care, here is a suggested preamble: We pledge our lives in true faith, to seek to love people for what they are, not to reject them for what they are not.

● We stake our belief in earnest on the proposition that unless we seek to love others in ways that earn their love, we cannot be loved.

● We affirm with the fullness of our being the truth that real love requires real concern. Indifference to truth and kindness defeats our intentions, makes them into pious but ineffective syllables of noise.

● We shall be firm with ourselves in guarding against self-righteousness and self-justification. Instead of asking "what's in it for me," we shall ask: what can we do to help?

● Above all, we shall be patient, conciliatory, eager to forgive, ready to admit our own guilt and error.

Is this a program for saints? Perhaps. But unless we battle our pride and passions—the ultimate stumbling blocks—with the zeal of the saint, we shall probably be swallowed up by the smoke of our own sin.

Leading Lady 'Marjorie'

Vimy Star Dies at 76

HALIFAX (CP)—Ross Hamilton, the popular Marjorie of the First World War's entertaining Dumbells, died in Camp Hill Hospital here early today. He was 76.

The Nova Scotia soldier, who took to skirts and falsetto song to lift the morale of Canadian troops overseas, had been ill for seven weeks. A hospital spokesman said he died of heart disease.

POPULARITY SPREAD

The inspiration for Hamilton's portrayal of Marjorie, singer, actor and vaudeville queen, was born on a gloomy French battlefield. Her popularity spread like wildfire through the troops and for 10 years after the war across the North American continent.

Then the theatre spotlights on the 11 Dumbells faded and

Hamilton

Hamilton retired to a lonely log cabin near the central Nova Scotia community of Pleasant Valley.

The story of the Dumbells began just before the battle of Vimy in 1917 in which nearly 4,000 Canadians were killed. Eleven soldiers of the 3rd Canadian Division obtained permission to put on a concert for the troops in an old barn.

After a few performances, the Dumbells, who took the name from the insignia on their shirts, formed a group and toured France. Five of the players dressed as women with Hamilton as leading lady.

Dinah Shore Denies Adultery

INDIO, Calif. (UPI)—Singer Dinah Shore has termed "adultery and completely false" charges by her estranged husband that she committed adultery with five men.

The accusation was made in a divorce countersuit filed by Maurice S. Smith, a Palm Springs, Calif., contractor. One year after Miss Shore obtained her interlocutory decree and one day after she petitioned to obtain a final decree.

Pravda Smersh Foe Smeared

MOSCOW (UPI) — Pravda linked James Bond and Adolf Hitler, capitalism and Viet Nam Wednesday in its angriest complaint yet about the exploits of Ian Fleming's Agent 007.

It also blamed the late president John F. Kennedy for shooting the Bond books to the best seller lists through his description of Bond as "my favorite hero." And it hinted that presidential assassin Lee Oswald may have been influenced by the books.

TAKING POTSHOTS

The Soviet press has been taking potshots at James Bond ever since Fleming's books first became popular. Pravda, the official Communist party paper, turned its chief polemicist, Yuri Zhukov, loose on the arch-foe of Smersh, Rosa Klebb and Dr. No. Although the Bond movies never have and probably never will be shown here, Fleming's books have gained a certain underground popularity among Soviet students and intelligentsia—the apparent reason for the repeated press attacks on them.

SATIRE MISSED

If Zhukov saw the satirical fun in the books and films, he apparently decided to ignore it. He wrote that Fleming, a former Moscow correspondent, is dead, but "it is impossible for James Bond to die, because those who are sent to kill in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic learn from his artistic work."

LAW OF GUN

"James Bond lives in a night-mare world where laws are written at the point of a gun, where coercion and rape is considered valor and murder a funny trick," Zhukov wrote. "All this is invented to teach people to accept the artistry of American Marines somewhere in the Mekong Delta, or Her Majesty's agents in Aden."

Pound Hits Magic Level

LONDON (UPI)—The pound sterling Wednesday hit the so-called "magic" level of parity with the U.S. dollar. This was the first time for 16 months that the pound has been traded at 2.80 to the dollar. Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan's optimistic statements in Washington were said to be the main driving force behind the jump.

Viet Nam

Wilson Willing To Talk

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson, while smothering a call by the left wing of his Labor party for government renunciation of U.S. policy in Viet Nam, said Wednesday he is ready to go anywhere at any time to help further peace negotiations.

Wilson lashed out at the party's annual conference at leftwingers seeking condemnation of U.S. bombing raids on North Viet Nam, saying:

"What some of them want is Chinese victory on Chinese terms."

WILSON WINS

The conference soundly defeated rebellious resolutions attacking Wilson's foreign policy, plans to curtail non-white immigration and defence spending.

A brief debate on the government's plan to cut almost in half the annual rate of Commonwealth immigration — mainly from India, Pakistan and the West Indies — provoked the most turbulent debate to date at the five-day conference.

SUPPORTS U.S.

Wilson, often associated with the party's left wing in the past, personally joined Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart and Deputy Pensions Minister Harold Davies, who made a mid-summer visit to Hanoi, in defending government support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Wilson said he is ready to fly anytime to talk with Prime Minister Alexei Kossygin of the Soviet Union and Chou En-lai of China.

REPEATS OFFER

And Stewart repeated an old invitation of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to join with him in recalling the Geneva conference on Indochina. They are co-chairmen of the Indochinese peacekeeping setup.

Davies, who claims to have friends among the North Vietnamese high command, said "the lines of communication to Hanoi" are still open.

Gaglardi Warns of Costs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Highways Minister Gaglardi Tuesday warned labor and management to consider the future effects of contract settlements on the province.

"It's either that or we're going to face the disastrous situation of pricing ourselves out of world markets because of fantastic, spiralling costs," he said by radio interview.

He was expanding on a statement he made Monday to heavy industry contractors that labor-management settlements this year will increase construction costs by $100,000,000.

Costs of the highways department were going up between 10 and 25 per cent.

"On our budget this year of about $90,000,000, we're going to have to spend upwards of $3,000,000 more than estimated to get the same end product in bridges and roads."

He warned the rising costs would result in curtailment of some highway projects.

BBG Approves CHEK Outlet

The Board of Broadcast Governors Wednesday gave approval for a television re-broadcasting satellite at Port Allice on northern Vancouver Island to pick up CHEK-TV in Victoria, conditional on operating as part of the CBC network.

Wilson Reports:

U.S. Denied U.K. Troops

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson said Wednesday the United States had requested British troops for Vietnam but his Labor government turned down the request. The prime minister stated this in a foreign policy speech to the Labor party convention. He did not say when the request was made except that it was at a time when Britain's pound sterling was under severe pressure. Wilson's statement came during a portion of his speech in which he assailed suggestions that Britain is supporting American policy in Vietnam in exchange for the Johnson administration's backing of the pound. This, said Wilson, "is a libel on President Johnson, it is a libel on us."

Slaying, Wounding

Civil Rights Case In Hands of Jury

HAYNEVILLE (UPI)—An all-white jury Wednesday was handed the case of special deputy Tom Coleman, accused of shooting to death a white civil rights seminar and critically wounding a Catholic priest.

The case went to the jury at 5:43 p.m. EST but the panel deliberated only an hour and three minutes before retiring without reaching a verdict. The jury will reconvene at 9 a.m. today.

Coleman, 52, is accused of first-degree manslaughter in the death of Jonathan Daniels, 26, an Episcopal seminarian from Keene, N.H., and with assault

Dupuis Trial Site Moved

QUEBEC (CP)—The trial at Tuesday ordered that the site of the trial be changed to Sherbrooke from St. John's. The next regular assizes at Sherbrooke are scheduled for January.

The influence - peddling charges resulted from unsuccessful efforts to obtain a race-track charter for a group in St. Jean - Ilerveville - Naperville constituency, the riding Mr. Dupuis held in the last Parliament.

He was fired from the Cabinet by Prime Minister Pearson last Jan. 20 following an investigation into the charges.

Bus Fights

Whites Leave School

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—Two Negroes were roughed up Wednesday in clashes stemming from protests over the busing of white students to a school where no integration has taken place.

In one instance three white men shoved a civil rights worker to the ground as he tried to snap a picture of the whites boarding school buses.

Negro leader Hosea Williams of Atlanta said he would come here to address a mass rally and map strategy with local Negroes.

TRY TO BOARD
About 20 Negroes for the second consecutive day tried to board school buses transporting white Tallahassee (Crawfordville) County students to segregated schools in neighboring Warren and Greene counties, an apparent effort to avoid integrating their own school. More than 500 Negroes have been boycotting their own school.

Gov. Carl Sanders at a specially called news conference in Atlanta threatened to use the state's school attendance laws to break up the Negro boycott. He said if Negro parents could not force their children to attend school "then let it be noted that Georgia operates some of the nation's finest training schools."

Future Heliport Site

This pile of rock located on hill by Esquimalt Road opposite Tyee Road will eventually become Victoria's first heliport. Fill is presently being trucked in from blasting operations at provincial museum site. Location is considered one of best in North America. Port should be ready for emergency landings when fill is levelled.—(William E. John)

Metal Firm Closes Down

Many of the 50 employees of Pacific Sheet Metal Ltd. have found new jobs as the firm goes into liquidation, a union spokesman said Wednesday.

The 53-year-old firm at 1009 Yates, though in process of being closed down, may yet be sold to a Victoria buyer, said receiver Ian H. Bell of Vancouver.

John Warlow, business agent of Local 276 of the Sheet Metal Workers International Association, reported that "quite a number" of the men have already found work in other shops. The firm was founded in 1912 by the late Percy Little on Fort Street.

Funeral Man Says:

Public Doesn't Understand

OTTAWA (CP) — It's time funeral directors realize the public is interested in funeral services and launched a massive public relations program, a U.S. authority on the subject said Wednesday.

Dr. Charles H. Nichols, director of the National Foundation of Funeral Service, Chicago, told the annual convention of the Ontario Funeral Service Association the public doesn't know "how to distinguish the good and the bad among us."

Public ignorance about the funeral service was at the root of the trouble. Another factor was "recurring cycles of optimism" and the appearance of books and articles bearing titles such as The High Cost of Dying. The profession had "been guilty of floundering." It needed a public relations campaign including polls, policies, programs, plans and publications.

Recently approved codes of ethics were "a damn good idea" but the public "must be made aware that such standards exist."

"These codes will be responsible for spotting the black sheep in our ranks." The thing the public most wanted to know was "cost and price information."

The Ontario association approved a code of ethical practices Tuesday endorsing many of the points Dr. Nichols raised.

Nationalists Get Loan

OTTAWA (CP) — A $5,000,000 loan to Nationalist China to cover sale of Canadian equipment for a lumber and furniture manufacturing development was announced Wednesday by the trade department.

The sale of the equipment by Canadian Transoceanic Technical Services Ltd. of Vancouver was the first to Nationalist China under Canada's long-term export financing program. The loan, which calls for repayment in eight years with a 50-month grace period, carries a 5 per cent annual interest rate.

Second NHL Bid From Vancouver

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

By rights this piece should be written by someone like the late Clyde Beatty with a kitchen chair in one hand and a bullwhip in the other. It involves tangling with that doughty lion of the sporting press, Daniel M. Daniel, and anybody who dares dispute a point of fact with this most authoritative of all baseball authorities would spit in the eye of a wounded rhino.

Nevertheless, the cause of history and the honor of John M. Ogdan demand that the battle be joined. In a recent column, Dan made a statement which cries aloud for correction. At least, John Ogdan cries aloud.

Writing about the smallest crowds in major league annals, Dan blasphemously declared the legend "that only two fans, one of them owner Phil Ball of the Browns, showed up one day in St. Louis," is a fake.

If the court please, the defence proposes to show that the incident the prosecution so cavalierly rejects as apocryphal did indeed take place, is indeed historical fact.

Phil Ball was a crusty little tyrant who had a franchise in the Federal League, moved into the American when the Feds folded, and paid the Browns' debts until he died. If he were around today, chances are he would have his buttons cut off and be dropped out of the regiment, for he was an owner who patiently and persistently lost money without ever lifting his voice in complaint, without walling for tax relief or asking a city to build him a new park, without even threatening to jump to Atlanta.

First Division Lineup

The only year he had a serious pennant contender was 1922 when the Browns, in spite of George Sialer's batting average of .422, finished second to the Yankees. As in most years, the Browns of 1929 floundered in the second division, though that team would be the favorite in the American League today.

The pitchers were Wally Schang and Rick Ferrell, a gifted rookie who had received the unheard of bonus of $25,000 as a free agent. Dextero Lu Blue was a stylish first baseman and little Oscar Melillo would go for weeks without making an error at second. Red Kress was a brilliant shortstop in his second big league season, Frank O'Rourke a steady influence at third.

For all of that, they were losers. Except when the Cardinals were defending the National League pennant there, Sportman's Park was strictly for the bats and owls. Especially when the Browns were playing their equally depressed cousins from Washington or Boston.

Not Fit for Seagulls

One rainy Sunday about noon, Bill Ball, the business manager, telephoned Ball for permission to postpone the game. The sorry Senators were in town. The dripping skies were as depressing as the ball clubs and the weatherman promised no improvement. Not even a misguided seagull would be out that day.

"I'm coming out," Ball said. "Play the game." He showed up as promised. The groundskeepers spread dry sand on the infield and the game got under way tardily. In my unreliable memory, Ball had a party of guests in his box, but on this we must defer to a higher authority. Call John Ogdan.

John Ogdan, being duly sworn, gives his address as Oxford, Pa., and his present occupation as an employee of the Phillies. On the letterhead of that club, he deposes:

"Remember that game I pitched in St. Louis on a wet Sunday? Started 4:45 p.m. One paid admission and Phil Ball. I defeated Washington, 12-4, had four for four.

"You were there. Daniel Philip Howley, manager; Bill Killefer and Jimmy Austin, coaches. Best regards."

Now, 36 years have passed since that day and John Ogdan has moved around and about more than somewhat. Human memory is not infallible, especially on ancient happenings that smack of the mythological.

One might allow that Ogdan could err on some minor points, except for four words in his quote—"had four for four." John Ogdan was a pitcher. When a pitcher makes four hits in four times at bat he forgets nothing about the occasion, not one stinking infinitesimal detail.

Your witness, Dan.

Koufax and Wills Switch Formula; Dodgers Stretch Lead to Two Games

Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills spell out pitching and speed, and that's what the Los Angeles Dodgers have used in the gallant comeback which now has them two length ahead in the National League stakes with only four jumps to the finish line.

There was a small change in the formula last night. Koufax supplied the pitching and Wills made sure it was going to be good enough by driving in three runs and scoring a fourth.

Koufax was superb as the Dodgers eliminated Cincinnati

Reds from contention, holding them to two hits and striking out 13 in a 5-0 victory.

It was his 25th win of the season, the last five of which have been shutouts. He yielded a single to Vada Pinson in the fourth inning and another to Deron Johnson in the seventh as he rolled his season's strike-out count to 369.

And he had to be that good, at least for most of the way. Jim Makney matched him for five innings before yielding an unearned run in the sixth inning.

Pennant Pressure Pain in Neck

Baseball can be a pain in the neck to some people. Here San Francisco Giants' shortstop Dick Schofield goes to his knees in pain after stopping St. Louis' Curt Flood's hard-hit grounder with his neck.

He had to leave game. Hal Lanier, right, retrieved ball and threw out runner Lou Brock at third on play. But Cards won, 8-6.—(AP)

Sandown's Only Triple Winner

Green Again Fools Bettors Again

By JIM TANG
It's been a great racing season for C. R. "Bob" Elliott, and it's getting better for the Vancouver owner-trainer because of a highly-regarded veteran named Green Again.

A nine-year-old gelding who in previous years had flashed a fair amount of speed but seldom held it, Green Again had gone to the post 13 times was posted. The Quinella was a neat $48.90.

Green Again was back last Saturday, this time the third mutual choice behind Bay Toe and Commander Joe. Again the pattern was the same, the price this time being $9.80 and the quinella $32.50 when Rough Road surprised even more by finishing second.

THEY ALL FORGOT

Yesterday, Green Again was back for the third time in five racing days. Most everybody forgot about the first two starts and he got away at odds a bit better than 7-1. But he ran the same kind of a race, hustling to the front early and holding them off until it was over.

That made him the first triple winner of the meeting, and probably the first, at Sandown at least, to pay $16.20 to win for the third straight win.

BIGGEST SUCCESS

Green Again isn't Elliott's biggest success of the season. That honor belongs to Fuddy's Orphan, a well-bred four-year-old gelding who has had his ailments since about the time he ran his first race.

Winner of his last two at Sandown last year, Fuddy's Orphan won nine of 18 starts, including six in a row, placed once and showed twice while running in the $2,500 class at Exhibition Park. The total in dollars came to $10,517, making him the richest horse at Sandown.

DONE WELL

Elliott has also done well this season with Read It and Indian Spirit, who have already won at Sandown, and has had fair success with Johnnie Hawk, Melody Man, Man of Mark, Aquilante, Grand Reward and Tommy Can. Only Blue Frame and Yamoto of the string he has at Sandown have eluded being part of a winning hand.

Fuddy's Orphan is scheduled for his first start in the featured seventh race tomorrow along with Tommy Can and also has Read It and Man of Mark entered.

Yesterday was still another day which provided something for both the chalk and longest players.

Brown Wheat and Dark Doll ran the good things that the mutual board said they should be to win the sixth and eighth races, respectively, and Bangor Daner and Hawkabore, who had served warning in their previous starts, won as second choices.

On the other side, Bold Mister lasted all the way for a $21 win return, Permano upset them in the featured seventh race for a $24.80 return, and Little Rooster beat the outside post to pay $10.

BREAKAGE: It appears likely that Sandown will have a clubhouse area for next season and, perhaps, other improvements for the patrons . . . mutual handle yesterday was $38,304, which may be a record for any day but Saturday and Thanksgiving Day. It was almost $18,000 above last year's wagering for the same day and brought the meet total to $765,349, up more than 17 per cent for the first seven days last year . . .

Victoria owner Gus Munro claimed Speedy Arrow, a promising three-year-old from C. W. Wheat, who could become an excellent brood mare when her racing days are over, went the same way for the same money to G. McLean. They ran one-two in the sixth race and both appear bargains . . . and Dark Hawk progeny are again grabbing off Sandown purse money. Hawkabore got the big share in the second and it was Dark Doll and Aaron's Red for a $42.50 quinella in the eighth.

Heisman Trophy Hex Gone; Baker Finally Gets to Play

By JIM MURRAY

For almost four years the only reason Terence Baker the football player needed a shower was because he used to pose for a swimsuit ad in the off-season. The only exercise he got was getting up to let a tired player take his seat on the bench.

His picture appeared in a national magazine ad with three of the registered greats of the sports world, and the public puzzled over his caption. Guesses ranged from the fact he might be the son of the president of the company — to he might be the surf board king of west Australia.

BEST IN WEST

Actually, Terry Baker was very possibly the best athlete — next to Jackie Robinson — ever raised on the west coast. He is the only Pacific Coast football player ever to win the Heisman Trophy. He was a tremendous college football player, a better-than-average basketball player, and a very good baseball player. What was even more remarkable, he could read a book without moving his lips.

Pro football has a habit of miscasting Heisman Trophy winners. They draft them No. 1, and then the owners, and general managers get their pictures in the paper posing over the signing while the coach bitterly confides to friends, "my God, I need a linebacker like eyes, and then they go out and get me a halfback who throws left handed!"

KEPT INTERESTED

Paul Hornung won the Heisman Trophy but it wasn't until 15 girl friends later and a hitch in the army that he really cracked the Green Bay backfield. He was used so little that the only way he could keep interested in the game was by betting on it.

Football coaches are privately of the opinion that they want football players from Grambling or Lamar Tech, or Southern Illinois. Anybody who has ever been to a banquet in New York or made the Look all-American team is treated as if he got a suit from being related to the boss.

Terry Baker got a suit, a fat contract and his picture in the papers. But, for years, whenever his name came up, the coaches changed the subject. "Terry," they said, "is a swell fellow. His attitude is just great."

His attitude had to be great. He was the Rams' most expensive season-ticket holder. The hardest thing he had to do on Sunday afternoon was move down the bench. To hear the coaches tell it, he was so inept they took to pouring over old films of his, not so much to see why he got the Heisman Trophy as to see why he got a uniform.

BENCH STRENGTH
Anyone else would have quit. The coaches were rather hoping he would. The owners made a mental note never to draft another Heisman Trophy winner for anything except keeping the books. The wits had a field day. "What did he win the trophy for — swimming?" "The Rams needed bench strength—so they had Terry Baker lifting weights in winter so he could sit on one end of the bench without its going in the air when somebody else sat down."

Terry Baker started studying law at night. Everyone thought it was a good idea for him to take something else up. Someone suggested he bring his torts and reviews to the bench so Sunday afternoons wouldn't be a total waste.

He could run just fast enough to get out of a hotel fire. He could pass just good enough to make the ball go forward. He became, not a standing joke, but a sitting one.

But no one ever caught Terry Baker crying on anyone's shoulder. You never found him sobbing over a schooner of beer. His partners in the swimsuit ad—who included the other Heisman trophy winner, Hornung, the golfer, Dave Marr, and the basketball genius, Bob Cousy—to a man, came to writers and said, "I swear, this is one of the world's great guys."

NOT SO SMART

I have never found anything terribly smart about pro football coaches—and I must say the feeling is mutual. They are the slowest people in the world to admit their mistakes, next to sportswriters.

But, on last Sunday afternoon, as the Rams played the Bears (and were holding them to 28-9 in the third quarter), it suddenly became obvious that the Heisman trophy winner could play football.

They called Terry Baker off the bench because the crowd was not only booing, it was tearing up its season tickets. For the people on the 50-yard line, the game was just a pointless interruption of their listening to the Dodgers' scores on transistor radios.

BIG DAY

Suddenly, Terry Baker had caught eight passes for 82 yards—most of the yards being made on running skill not on key blocks—and there he was in the end zone with 40 seconds to play, beating Roosevelt Taylor, one of the best defensive players in the league, by two steps.

BE AWAKE

But, in the huddle, the quarterback, Bill Munson, suddenly realized that the coaches, in their infinite wisdom, had been keeping a very good pass receiver anchoring one corner of the bench. Terry Baker could not only catch a football, he could take it someplace when he did.

"Be awake out there," Munson whispered to Terry as they clapped hands to line up. "I have a feeling you might see something coming."

A moment later, Baker reached up to catch a pass which made the first win the Rams have had over the Bears since Truman was president. One of the most remarkable one-day performances in Ram history, since Tom Fears broke in, was concluded. Around the country, football coaches ground their teeth in despair.

Like Vince Lombardi at Green Bay, Harland Sore at L.A. and his coaching staff had discovered just in time that Heisman trophy winners are very apt to be considerable football players indeed—even after a three-year layoff.

United Loses Ball For at Least Month

Victoria United travels to Vancouver Sunday for an Anderson Cup soccer semi-final against New Westminster Royals, but they'll have to play without forward Russ Ball for at least a month.

Ball, who injured his knee two weeks ago when United beat St. Andrews, 3-0, in an Anderson Cup game, played last Saturday when United lost, 2-0, to UBC Thunderbirds in the Pacific Coast Soccer League opener.

Ball's doctor has now told him to rest the knee for four to five weeks.

In PCSL action on the mainland Saturday, Firefighters play North Shore Luckies and Thunderbirds meet St. Andrews.

While United is away, the Victoria and District Soccer League will take over Royal Athletic Park.

On Saturday, Hornigan's Kickers play Luckies in a McGavin Cup semi-final, the winner to play Canadian Scottish for the trophy.

On Sunday it's second division league play, with Wanderers and Sidney at Royal Athletic Park, George and Esquimalt at Heywood Park, and Wests and University at Gordon Head.

All games at 2 p.m.

Ron Morris On Shelf

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference placed halfback Ron Morris on the 30-day injured reserve list Wednesday and reactivated guard Willie Taylor.

Morris has been playing with a leg injury. Taylor will replace Steve Cotter, who has a bruised knee, in Saturday's game here against Edmonton Eskimos.

Hull Back In Camp

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Hull, the Golden Jet of the National Hockey League, rejoined Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday after patching up his feud with the management over dressing-room policy.

Hull quit the Hawk training camp Saturday when his two sons, Blake, 5, and Bobby, 4, were barred from the dressing room.

"There was a misunderstanding which had been patched up," said Hull after a conference with general manager Tommy Ivan.

KNOWS NOW

"I understand now why the management wants to keep the dressing room strictly for players during training. We have a lot of young players trying to make the team and they shouldn't be distracted."

The conference also included talk on the star player's 1965-66 salary, but Hull scoffed at reports he was asking for $100,000.

SOME CONFUSION

Hull, who received an estimated $30,000 last season, said confusion was caused by his alleged mention of a $100,000 salary in an interview at Hawaii last winter.

Hull stressed his walkout was not over salary but strictly over banning of his boys from the Hawk dressing room.

On the salary matter, Ivan said "a lot of figures were tossed around, but we're not far apart."

Ivan said Hull would not be disciplined for his four-day absence.

The peace parley was started by Hull, who visited the Chicago stadium camp during Hawk practice and sought out Ivan.

Shack charged that the Leafs had sent him to Rochester as box office bait for the 10 games the Toronto-owned AHL club will play in Toronto this season.

There were bitter words between Shack and Toronto-coach Punch Imlach on Saturday but it was all ended Monday when Shack signed a Rochester contract.

Shack, Leafs Now Agreed On Rochester

PETERBOROUGH — Eddie Shack is back in the good graces of the Toronto Maple Leafs and, apparently, is reconciled to playing with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

He was placed under suspension Sunday for refusing to play for Rochester against the Leafs in an exhibition game Saturday night.

Shack charged that the Leafs had sent him to Rochester as box office bait for the 10 games the Toronto-owned AHL club will play in Toronto this season.

There were bitter words between Shack and Toronto-coach Punch Imlach on Saturday but it was all ended Monday when Shack signed a Rochester contract.

After Fire

Family Spends Month Inside Station Wagon

CHICAGO (AP)—A church worker has come to the rescue of a family of 10 which has been sleeping in a station wagon for four weeks because nobody would rent them an apartment.

Landlords have rejected the Kozinski family because it is too big.

But Mrs. Arlene Tomko, a secretary at St. Patrick Church, read about the plight of the John Kozinski family. She took them into the bungalow she shares with her husband, Elmer, a machinist, and their two youngsters.

Kozinski, 37, and his wife, Lorraine, 37, and their eight children, aged 2 to 11, slept Monday night in the basement on a bed and a rug.

It was a penhouse compared to what the Kozinskis have endured since a fire burned them out of their home.

Kozinski makes $24 a day as a boilermaker. They stayed at motels while they had cash. Then they started sleeping in the station wagon in Calumet Park.

They drove to drive-ins for food and visited restrooms in service stations.

Each morning Kozinski drove the nomads to St. Patrick school where five attended classes. His wife, who does not drive, and the three youngest children stayed in the parked station wagon there while Kozinski walked to his job, a 20-minute hike.

Mrs. Tomko said the Kozinskis have leads to some vacant places and hope to find a landlord with a heart big enough for eight youngsters.

Wheel's Eye View

Blackie, inquisitive little pup, was having fun at filling station in Newark, N.J., but stuck his head through rim of wheel. To ease his difficulty employees built platform of boxes for him to stand on while police tried to enlarge hole with electric saw. Liberal applications of petroleum jelly finally turned trick and Blackie slid free.—(AP)

New Record

Economy Hits $50,000,000 By Mid-Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The bureau of statistics estimated today the pace of the Canadian economy reached an annual rate of $50,948,000,000 during the second quarter of this year.

Actual product of the whole economy for April, May and June was $12,566,000,000, surpassed only by the third quarter of last year in the current four-year expansion.

It marks the first time that the annual rate of gross national product—the total dollar value of all end-product goods and services produced in the country—has topped the $50,000,000,000 mark.

RECORD GAIN

The bureau reported today that record grain harvest prospects in the Prairies, continued business expansion, and strong consumer buying contributed to the increase.

The figure for April, May and June was more than six per cent greater than during the final quarter of 1964 and two per cent greater than the bureau's revised estimate of gross national product in the first quarter of 1965.

The bureau said about half the increase in the second quarter resulted from price increases. Just over half the increase was a gain in real terms, inclusive of inflation.

PURCHASING VALUE

To take account of the lessened purchasing value of money, the bureau estimated that in terms of 1957 dollars the gross national product—which was $41,518,000,000 for the whole of 1964—was at an annual rate of $44,060,000,000 during the second quarter of 1965.

The bureau reported three months ago its estimate of the gross national product for the first quarter of this year was $40,876,000,000 in dollars of current value. It said today it has revised this estimate upwards to $50,948,000,000 because of the big grain harvest expected this year.

This revision meant that the first-quarter gross national

Ottawa Not Keen On Water Deal

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada wants no part of a massive, visionary scheme to wet down the western United States with Canadian water.

The $100,000,000,000 project is the brainchild of the Ralph M. Parsons Co. of Los Angeles and New York.

PUSHING SCHEME

The engineering and construction firm has been pushing the scheme in government circles on both sides of the border for some time and recently got a boost from Democratic Senator Frank Moss of Utah.

It involves the collection of water from rivers in British Columbia, the Yukon and Alaska draining into the Pacific and Arctic oceans.

BIG LAKE

Trapped in giant reservoirs, it would be channelled through a series of lifts and tunnels into the Rocky Mountain Trench. It would form a 500-mile lake from Prince George, B.C., to Libby, Mont.

In effect, the natural flow of the rivers would be partly reversed into the trench to form the lake 3,000 feet above sea level. From the southern tip water would be drained into rivers and canals to solve the water supply problems of the western U.S. and Mexico.

JOINT STUDIES

Senator Moss introduced a resolution in the Senate late in August calling on President Johnson to urge Canada to join the U.S. in referring the project to the international joint commission for a report on its technical and economic feasibility.

He said there were signs that Canadian authorities were re-evaluating their opposition to the idea of making joint studies of the project.

NEGATIVE VIEW

The scheme has a number of sidelights that would change the face of a good part of Canada. But the Canadian government view on water export is negative, stated both privately and publicly.

In public speeches Northern Affairs Minister Leung, whose portfolio includes water resources, has said Canada will allow water export only if absolutely convinced it is in the country's best interest. He has termed water Canada's second greatest asset, after oil.

NOT NEEDED

Informants say that in the Canadian view the Parsons scheme—called the North American Water and Power Alliance—is at best premature. Canada just does not need NAWAPA.

In any event Canada has had no opportunity to give a blunt rejection of the scheme to the U.S. government because no official request about it has been made to Ottawa.

NAWAPA is nothing if not big. It envisages a vast Canadian canal network with a seaway linking the Pacific Ocean near Vancouver to Lake Superior.

Ocean vessels would go up the Fraser River through a series of locks into the Rocky Mountain Trench and across the Prairies to the Great Lakes system, in effect providing Canada with a transcontinental canal.

CHEAP TRANSPORT

From the massive development—which would take 30 years to complete—the Prairies would get an extra 110,000,000 acre-feet of water, primarily for agricultural use. An acre-foot is enough water to cover an acre of land to a depth of one foot. Agricultural production would be increased by 50 per cent.

The Parsons brochure on the scheme lists a wide range of other economic benefits ranging from the production of cheap hydro-electric power to a vast expansion of the uranium industry by opening mining districts to cheap ship and barge transportation.

IRRETRIEVABLE

It also steps into the political realm, suggesting an ultimate effect would be to push Canada into the Commonwealth leadership past Britain.

But the Canadian view is that the U.S. would get a huge amount of Canadian water which, once given, is irretrievable.

There also is some question of Canada's ability to retain her political independence from the U.S. once the two countries were linked by a unified, continental water-diversion scheme.

DEEP DEBT

In addition, the Rocky Mountain Trench lake and other reservoirs would flood thousands of acres of land and many important communities.

As one Canadian official put it, buying NAWAPA is like buying a Cadillac and then going deeply into debt to pay for it.

Canada? Where's That?

TORONTO (CP) — Norm Nicola, a 22-year-old defensive end with Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference, said Wednesday he doubts that Canadian football is a major attraction to most United States college players.

Nicola is in his first season with the Argos after graduating with a bachelor of arts degree in modern languages at Notre Dame.

The six-foot, 245-pounder said that to some U.S. college players, the Canadian Football League represents the end of the line while others have never heard of it.

"The ambition of most college players in the states is to play pro, either in the National or American leagues," he said. "I know some who wouldn't want to play up here but it is mainly because they are ignorant of conditions in this league."

WINNIPEG (CP) — Blue Bombers of the Western Football Conference have picked up guard Morley Rolihier on waivers from Edmonton Eskimos.

Muscovites Walk and Walk, For There's Nowhere to Sit

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—Every night and every weekend, whenever the weather is the least bit favorable, Moscow's residents pour from their apartments into the streets—and walk.

Visitors to the city are often fascinated and vaguely perplexed by the sight of so many thousands of people apparently going nowhere, yet never stopping.

There's hardly any place to stop. The city is acutely lacking in establishments where a person can sit down in pleasant surroundings and enjoy some refreshment.

KEEP STROLLING

The Muscovites who quit their crowded apartment for a reviving stroll in the fresh air just has to keep strolling.

You can walk the entire length of Gorky Street, a long, wide thoroughfare that runs into the Kremlin plaza, without finding more than one or two reasonably attractive cafes.

Most of those available are cheerless short-order places called "stalovaya"—literally, dining rooms—or standup sandwich bars or coffee bars.

A few restaurants and hotel dining rooms go to the other extreme, offering good food in a leisurely atmosphere but at prices the average person cannot afford to pay.

There's scarcely a place where the Muscovite can go for a cup of coffee and a snack in cozy surroundings—a place where he might take his girl friend.

All facilities are hopelessly overcrowded.

The situation has been criticized in a number of newspaper articles.

DISCOMFORT

"Gorky Street is so dark at night," complained a correspondent in the Communist party newspaper Pravda. He compared it unfavorably with Nevsky Prospect in Leningrad which had "many lights and many cafes."

"We have few cafes on Gorky Street. One wants a place to eat and, mainly, to have a rest... but they should be built not only on the main streets."

Young people, especially, needed more modern, cheap

TAVERNS CLOSED

The situation regarding beer parlors is even sadder than that respecting cafes. As of the beginning of this year, there was only one place in all Moscow where a person could go and quaff a cool one.

Beer bars, as they are called here, ran afoul of Nikita Khrushchev's campaign several years ago to cut down on drunkenness in the Soviet Union.

The problem of drunkenness is still acute, as anyone can see simply by taking a walk at night. But the beer halls remain closed.

LONG TIME

A plank in the Communist party program calls for greater investment in public catering establishments. In line with this, new cafeteria-style eating places can be seen in different parts of the city.

There have even been reports that more beer parlors are to be opened.

At the present rate of visible progress, it will be a long time before those crowds on Gorky Street stop walking.

Lesage to Explore Exchange Rejection

EDMONTON (CP) — Quebec Premier Lesage Wednesday promised to "go deep" into the rejection by Laval University students of a proposal for a western Canada exchange week at the Quebec City campus.

He told a press conference the rejection, perhaps "extremist thinking of a group or maybe some basic misunderstanding" did not reflect the Quebec government policy of encouraging exchanges.

Earlier, he told a breakfast of the French-Canadian Association of Edmonton he will investigate the rejection when he returns to Quebec Oct. 8 after a western Canadian tour.

Mr. Lesage held a private 30-minute meeting with Alberta Premier E. C. Manning. It was his first meeting with a western premier since he kicked off his tour at Saskatoon Sept. 13.

He also said he has been bothered by indifference some persons in his western audiences have shown to his viewpoints on biculturalism.

New York Jittery Over Papal Visit

Block the Killer 'Priests'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Detectives seeking to prevent a possible attack on Pope Paul here by any anti-religious fanatics disguised as priests have alerted shopkeepers to report any suspicious purchases of religious apparel.

At the same time federal and city security agents, preparing for the Pontiff's pilgrimage Monday, combed files of known psychopaths and other potential trouble-makers and tabbed them for special police surveillance.

The Pontiff will deliver 11 speeches during his stay here, most of them in English. But his major speech, a plea before the United Nations for world leaders to negotiate their differences, will be delivered in French.

Police Commissioner Vincent Broderick said law enforcement agencies had combined their efforts in a check of anti-Catholic members of hate groups. Eighteen thousand security assignments have been handed out in the police department alone in connection with the visit.

A spokesman for a religious apparel firm said a priest's apparel could easily be purchased for less than $100 and added, "Frankly, there's no difficulty in purchasing such items ordinarily."

Wednesday, teams of policemen scoured the 24 miles of roadway the Pope will travel at a leisurely 12 miles an hour on his trip from Kennedy airport to St. Patrick's Cathedral, looking for likely places for an assassin to hide.

India Balks

Pull-Out Plan Rejected

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — India Wednesday turned down Pakistan's proposal that all Indian and Pakistani troops be withdrawn from Kashmir and replaced with a United Nations peacekeeping force pending settlement of the dispute over the Himalayan state.

H. E. Syed Mir Qasim, Kashmir minister with the Indian delegation to the UN, told the General Assembly "we are entirely opposed to this proposal" because, he said, Kashmir is a part of India and not an independent state as Pakistan claims.

Qasim was replying to an address Tuesday by Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto of Pakistan who accused India of aggression and proposed that a force from African, Asian and Latin-American states supervise Kashmir pending negotiations which would lead to a plebiscite in the troubled state.

Qasim charged that Pakistan, and not India, was the aggressor and then went on to outline how the people of Kashmir, though predominantly Muslim, "made their choice as between the Indian and Pakistani ideologies long before the events of Indian independence and the partition of the country."

Kashmir is an "integral part" of India, the Indian delegate said. "Its people are free nations of India, who have made their choice of union with India and ratified the union through their representatives elected on the basis of adult franchise."

In the morning, Foreign Minister Maurice Courvoisier of France urged the United Nations not to use force in trying to keep peace in the world.

"Resorting to force could only be an adventure," said the foreign minister, delivering France's first policy statement in the assembly debate in five years.

France, however, had no objections to truce supervisory operations such as those now under way in the Indian-Pakistan dispute, the French foreign minister said.

'War Crimes' Trials

North Viet Nam Promises More Executions

SAIGON (AP) — North Viet Nam has hurled threats of war crimes trials and execution at American and South Vietnamese fighting men.

U.S. spokesmen in Washington Wednesday called the threats a resort to savagery and a smoke-screen for reprisals against the execution by South Viet Nam of persons convicted of being Viet Cong guerrillas agents.

The threat of trials came from the North Vietnamese government in a letter to the International Red Cross at Geneva. It declared American and South Vietnamese pilots captured in its territory would be treated as war criminals who must face tribunals.

An official Hanoi publication on the ground in the future may be executed summarily.

NO REACTION

U.S. officials in Saigon had no official reaction but informants said they were concerned over the threats.

On the warfronts Wednesday, U.S. advisers at Qui Nhon, 250 miles northeast of Saigon, reported three Viet Cong regiments—about 3,000 men—massing in an area where they fought bloody engagements with South Vietnamese troops last week and again Tuesday night.

SCATTERED FIGHTS

Elsewhere, U.S. marines and South Viet Nam forces clashed with the Viet Cong in scattered fights and U.S. planes, including B-52 bombers from Guam, pounded targets in South Viet Nam while other American aircraft raided in North Viet Nam.

The North Vietnamese letter was in reply to a Red Cross appeal to both sides to observe the Geneva convention for the protection of prisoners and civilians in Viet Nam.

U.S. officials in Washington expressed disappointment over the apparent rejection by North Viet Nam of the Red Cross efforts.

The hint of execution for Americans captured by the Viet Cong came from the official Hanoi daily, Nhan Dan. The Communist publication said Capt. Humbert R. Versace of Baltimore, Md., and Sgt. Kenneth M. Haraback, whose wife lives at Fayetteville, N.C. and who were shot by the Viet Cong Sunday, "would have been put to death long ago had it not been for the lenient policy" of the Viet Cong.

Then the paper warned that the execution two weeks ago of three Viet Cong sympathizers by South Vietnamese gives Americans "no chance to continue enjoying that leniency."

Bootleg beer piles up in police storage

Seized Brew Destined For Drain

VANCOUVER (CP)—It's enough to put a B.C. beer drinker off his cider.

With supplies dried up for more than a month by a strike of coast breweries, Lower Mainland beer fanciers learned Wednesday that more than 5,000 bottles now held by Vancouver police could finish up going down the drain.

Police said beer or liquor seized as evidence in bootlegging cases is forfeited to the Crown if a conviction is recorded. It is then turned over to the RCMP for disposal.

An RCMP spokesman said normal procedure is to feed 15 cases at a time into a reduction press. The bottles are smashed and the beer goes down a drain.

Vancouver police are holding 428 cases of beer—most of it from small interior breweries not on strike—as they continue their crackdown on beer runners.

They seized 105 cases Wednesday, and confiscated a 1954 model car, following a raid on a city home.

In the last five days, nine persons have been charged with bootlegging. Four cars, as well as beer, have been confiscated. Chief Constable Ralph Booth warned under Section 64 of the Government Liquor Act seizure of a vehicle in which liquor is being kept for sale is virtually automatic.

Section 64 provides for a maximum fine of $1,000 or six months in jail for a first conviction on bootlegging. Minimum sentence is a $300 fine or three months in jail. Second offenders go to jail for up to 12 months, with no provision for a fine.

As seized beer continued to pour in, Vancouver police Wednesday began storing the cases in a basement room at the police station. The regular storage vault already is packed to the ceiling.

Meanwhile, there is no sign of a break in the strike that began Aug. 23.

Squabble Over Beer Fatal to Customer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man died of a heart attack here Wednesday during a squabble over a case of beer in the sixth week of a brewery strike.

Police said Jack Eng was one of many who rushed to a Rite Road liquor store when word got out that it had received a shipment of beer from one of two small breweries still operating.

A squabble developed when Eng ordered two cases of beer and protests ensued from those waiting in line.

In a struggle that followed Eng fell to the sidewalk and struck his head.

A man, held for questioning, later was released when an autopsy showed Eng died of a heart attack and that his head wound was minor.

Aftermath of Taal

Divers Seek Dead

MANILA (AP)—Rescue workers cautiously checking the Lake Taal island blackened by Tuesday's eruption of Mount Taal, said Wednesday they found ashes and volcanic debris 30 feet deep in places. Only rooftops showed in a half-dozen villages.

There was no immediate sign of human life on the 12½-square-mile island, where 2,000 Filipinos had lived and farmed 40 miles south of Manila. Many had fled during the eruption to the lakeshore, five to 50 miles away, braving a rain of stones that sank small boats. (See story, picture page 28.)

The Red Cross said 184 bodies were recovered on the shore.

MURKY WATER

Frogmen hunted for bodies in the lake, whose once-clear waters were murky with volcanic ash. Battered bodies of farm animals bobbed on the surface.

Rescuers drew some cheer from the fact that the area covered with ash and lava was somewhat smaller than originally reported. It appeared that about one-third of the island was badly hit, but residents of the other two-thirds may have had a chance to get to boats.

TOLL 500?

The Philippine constabulary reported about 15,000 people in refugee camps. A good number of these may be from the island itself, with the rest from threatened shorelines nearby.

The Manila Daily Mirror, which had reporters on the island, said the eventual death toll may turn out to be 500.

The volcano continued to growl 48 hours after the eruption. Black smoke and steam billowed out of the newly-formed crater on the edge of the island.

Indians Claim Win After Camel Clash

Communists May Join Truce Team

UNITED NATIONS (CP) —Canadian military observers along the troubled Indian-Pakistan border may be joined by officers from Eastern European Communist countries if United Nations Secretary-General U Thant's request is granted, UN sources said Wednesday.

There has been no response so far from the Eastern European countries — Romania, Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia — to Thant's request which had also gone out to a number of Latin-American nations as well as to Canada.

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — India claimed Wednesday it has gained the upper hand in fighting that erupted between Indian rangers and Pakistani camel units in the Rajasthan Desert despite the ceasefire agreement with Pakistan.

A defence ministry spokesman said "serious losses in men and equipment" have been inflicted on Pakistani units, which he charged were trying to infiltrate the west Indian state of Rajasthan.

SADDLERY

He said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured in clashes near the villages of Kelnor, Dedhar and Chotan. War booty seized by the Indians was reported to include "18 camels complete with saddlery."

In Rawalpindi, a Pakistani spokesman said Indian troops committed another truce violation Tuesday night in the Husseiniwal-Khem Karan sector. The spokesman alleged an infiltration of Indian troops.

Family Ordered Out

Wilderness Dreams Dashed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lee van Dusen's dream of life in the British Columbia wilderness has vanished. He, his wife and three children have been ordered back to the U.S.

Two other American families, also from Tipton, Ind., will remain behind and try to build a life, away from the city, at Wakeman Sound, a remote mainland inlet about 200 miles north-east of here.

Immigration authorities ruled the van Dusens were not properly landed immigrants and have given them until the middle of October to leave the country.

Van Dusen, 27, told "authorities he would have his wife Karen and three children flown out of an abandoned logging camp in which the families are living."

Van Dusen said he would leave by boat as soon as he made repairs on his small inboard.

Immigration authorities said the heads of the other two families, Dave Stafford and Jack Myers, both 31, plan to obtain jobs in logging camps on the island.

"They will make good immigrants," an immigration spokesman said here Wednesday.

"If they can't make a living where they are, they will move out and fit into some community."

The men were quoted as saying they feared sporadic nuclear warfare, an impending Communist takeover, creeping socialism and the "Mickey Mouse philosophy."

"All they really want to do is get away from city life," the spokesman said. "The Myers and Staffords lived on opposite sides of a freeway in Indiana and their children couldn't play with each other."

"They're not crackpots. They're intelligent people capable of taking care of themselves."

"There's a telephone at the logging camp so they're not quite as isolated as it would seem. They can call out in case of an emergency."

HOW SAFE IS A MORTGAGE?

Whereas most investments risk a loss on the first dollar of depreciation of the value of the security, a mortgage can retain the full value of the property secured. Therefore, the LOWEST PERCENTAGE of total value represented by the mortgage is the least the secured risk.

New York's Sixth Busiest Day

New High Fails to Hold

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit taking on the big September rise, accompanied by a rumor of stiffening credit, accompanied a stock market decline on the sixth largest volume in history.

Turnover was 10,610,000 shares compared with 8,750,000 Tuesday and was the largest since May 31, 1962, when 10,706,970 shares changed hands.

The market advanced in the morning and both the Dow Jones industrial and the rail averages advanced above historic closing peaks.

At noon, the Dow Industrials were up 5.32 to 161.17, easily topping the historic closing high of 159.62 reached last May 14, but by the closing bell the average showed a net loss of 3.46 at 161.39.

SCM Corp. rose about a point when the market was strong in the morning but ended with a stiff net loss of 3 1/2 at 49 1/2.

Cowichan Featured

VANCOUVER — Cowichan was the feature among mines rising eight cents to 74. Also higher were Lorne at 1.25 and Silver Standard at 1.30.

Lower were Granduc at 4.85, Endako at 13 1/2, Western at 4.85, New Imperial at 1.23 and Northgate at 4.46.

MacMillan broke through to 30 and Woodwards to 27 in a fairly steady industrial section. Grover Wine was 4.00 and Doan 8.00.

Fort St. John rose to 1.90 in oil.

Industrials Dip

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials declined in a sudden reversal of trend in light to moderate trading.

Losses were mostly fractional but were widespread. The fall came after a half-day of rises.

Among industrials Loblaw A gained 1/4 to 11 1/2 and traded 34,730 shares while the B issue picked up 1/4 to 11 1/2 on 30,681 shares.

Sport Stand Changed

CUMBERLAND — A complete change of policy, which only seven people met to discuss, was brought to light at a basketball meeting held in the Cumberland Recreation Institute lecture room, recently.

According to chairman Mrs. Ina Allan, all basketball will be directly under the operation of the recreation club in future.

Uniforms will be on a rental basis and no child or adult may play without first becoming a club member.

In the case of a child wishing to play basketball only, he would be allowed a special membership rate of $5, plus his basketball registration cost and the price of uniform rental.

It was also decided at the meeting that players would be assessed 25 cents each for trips to Alberni and Nanaimo and 50 cents for a ride to Victoria.

The residence rule will be strictly enforced this year. Any player from another centre, must obtain the release of the player and permission to use him.

The letter of permission must accompany the registration form when it is forwarded to the Island registrar.

The meeting also learned that a basketball meeting and referees' clinic will be held Sunday in Nanaimo at 1 p.m. in the Tally-Ho.

Candidate Blasts Republican Move

PORT ALBERNI — Independent candidate J. Alex MacKenzie found more fuel for his fight to keep Canadian masters in their own house in the announcement that eleven American Republican congressmen have launched what he terms "the year of Canadian awareness."

"The mighty ace in the hole which triggered this sudden awareness of Canada is a colorful, colorful, transparent fluid, consisting of two volumes of hydrogen to one of oxygen.

In order to get Canadian water power, said Mr. MacKenzie, they list many proposals, including a free port in Alaska.

Licensing of Canadian subsidiaries as they may trade as the Canadian government permits, drew Mr. MacKenzie's sarcasm. "My, how considerate they agree at last, that they should allow us to run our own affairs."

Duncan Boy Goes to Jail

DUNCAN — Irving Sydney Jack, 16, was raised to adult court and sentenced to nine months in jail for five charges of breaking and entering when he appeared before Magistrate Lance Heard.

Police stated the boy entered four local business premises, one twice. The offences occurred

Aug. 29th, Sept. 3, and the remaining three last weekend.

The juvenile admitted breaking into Westwell's General Store on two occasions and stealing $34 in cash. At Saunders Sales and Service Ltd. he collected $8.

Visits to the Greenhaven Cafe and Whitmore's Real Estate office proved fruitless.

Theatre Officials Guests in Victoria

Officials of drama clubs from all over Vancouver Island enjoyed a night of comedy and discussed the Victoria theatrical scene recently.

The club officials from Duncan to Courtenay were guests of Bastion Theatre Actors' committee at the first Bastion production of the season Come Blow Your Horn, at the McPherson Playhouse.

Before the show Mr. and Mrs.

Ted Gaskell entertained visitors at a turkey buffet which was also attended by Bastion artistic director Peter Manning, business manager Stewart Paul, and the show's director, Stuart Baker.

After the production the Islanders met actors at a coffee party.

Included in the up-Island party were:

Mrs. C. McKinnon and Mrs. B. Gaudet, St. Peter's Players, Nanaimo; Ralph and Vivienne Sykes, Duncan Drama Club; Mr. and Mrs. Hector Richmond, Yellow Point Drama Group; Mr. and Mrs. A. Slater, Little Mountain Theatre Club, Parksville; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Little, Ladysmith Little Theatre; Mr. and Mrs. H. Van Rossum, Lake Cowichan Drama Club; Mr. and Mrs. G. Regier, Courtenay.

Council Hits Hazards

PORT ALBERNI — The mayor and members of the council are continuing to back up the fire chief and the building inspector where buildings are unsafe and in a dilapidated condition.

The latest building to come under consideration of council is a big old warehouse owned by West Coast Freight and used by Long Beach Transport for storage.

Located at 143 Kingsway North, the place came under fire not only from Fire Chief Maurice Smith and deputy building inspector R. D. Pretty, but also from the assistant Fire Marshal from Vancouver who saw it on a recent visit.

HIGH COST

Giving his opinion that the building had deteriorated beyond repair, since a renovation to modern standards would be at prohibitive cost, Mr. Pretty was questioned closely by Ald. Jack Perry, who was concerned that a building under active use by a business might be ordered demolished, to the disruption of the business.

On hearing all the details, Ald. Perry agreed that it appeared beyond repair, and it was decided the city solicitor should be instructed to give the owners the usual 60 days notice.

Revue Brings $1,000 To Hospital

TOFINO — The entertaining revue produced by the hospital staff here has passed into memory, but the funds received through performances at Uclulet and Tofino live on to help construct in addition to the nurses' quarters.

The revue played to full houses at all performances, and more than $1,000 was taken in. Pianist was Mrs. Edna Bachelor. Masters of Ceremonies were Dr. H. R. McDiarmid and George Pownall.

Stage manager was Murray Summers, and his assistant was Esther Wilson.

School Programs Need Control

PORT ALBERNI — The need for federal control of education programs was mentioned at this week's school board meeting.

Extra sessions for students from the prairie provinces who are deficient in language credits were again authorized by the board.

"Every time youngsters come from other provinces, we run into the problem of varying education standards," a teacher commented later.

"Often the stress has been on subjects other than those we require here and it's only with classes such as these that they can catch up."

Teachers Studying

By RUTH McKELLAR

COURTENAY — Teaching techniques were explained and demonstrated by Bill Day, director of Adult Education in Surrey, who gave a day-long seminar for night school teachers here recently.

He was assisted in the seminar by Harry Harris, local night school director. It was the first time such a seminar has been held, and 30 night school teachers, most of whom are civilians by day, turned out.

Communication was the main topic of all session talks, lectures and demonstrations. Films, group discussion and question periods added to the variety of activities.

Mr. Harris told the teachers the seminar was designed to make one more critical of one's work.

The students chose the topic they wished to discuss from a list Mr. Day presented.

No Objection To Transit Cut

ALBERNI — Members of Alberni city council have reluctantly agreed they cannot put up any objection to Tynes Bus Company's decision to cut service on the Twin Cities operation.

The decision came in reply to a letter to council from the public utilities commission, concerning the bus company's application for permission to cut off evening service.

Since it has been proved not economically feasible to continue night-time service, the council agreed they could not protest, since a subsidy for the company will be decided by referendum in October.

Ald. J. C. Williamson brought up the matter of a recent school board decision regarding Robert Jones, a school teacher who had applied for leave to play in championship lacrosse playoffs in the east.

He was given three days' leave without pay.

Mr. Williamson pointed out "we have considerable trouble in attracting teachers of the type we want in this area."

"When we have a young man of Bob Jones' academic and athletic ability, it seems a shame not to encourage him. In past years, athletic ability has always been recognized here. "In the basketball field, I don't know of one such request being turned down, or of pay being cut off, even in the fields of industry and business."

"A young man like this, so highly valued by the recreation commission for his extra-curricular work with youngsters, as well as his teaching ability, is of inestimable value to the community."

Council went on record as being in agreement with Mr. Williamson's comments.

Maple Bay Resident Dies

MAPLE BAY — Well-known Maple Bay resident and businessman in Duncan, Charles St. Leger Ferguson, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, on Sept. 28. He was 78 years of age.

Born at Rock Corry, Ireland,

Mr. Ferguson came to Canada in 1918.

He served with the Royal Artillery, and was a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Cowichan Branch. He was also a member of St. John's Anglican Church.

Funeral services will take place from St. John's, Thursday at 2:00 p.m. with the Rev. Canon R. L. Crisfield officiating, followed by interment in St. Mary's churchyard, Somerses, Hirst Funeral Chapel, Duncan, in charge of arrangements.

Class for Handicapped Children

Fight for Special School Won

PORT ALBERNI—The Kitchener family has won, after three years of struggle. Little Shelly Kitchener, who is almost deaf, will soon be going to a special class.

Only last month, Mrs. Margaret Kitchener was told no when she tried one more attempt to interest the school board in setting up a special class for youngsters of normal intelligence but with physical handicaps.

The board said there was only a handful of children in the valley who need such treatment.

Mrs. Kitchener disagreed. After the board meeting, she and Shelly went to Vancouver, and were told the girl, who has been given high marks for intelligence by a Vancouver specialist, could not be enrolled at Jericho school for the deaf.

Specialists said the home environment is important. So Mrs. Kitchener came back to the valley and was encouraged to try once more when Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Herd joined the fight. Their son also has a hearing problem.

Now the board says yes. H. La Bounty, special counsellor for valley schools, said he surveyed the valley and found at least 15 children could benefit from such a special class.

The board even has a teacher ready, Mrs. Marion McKinley, recently arrived from Kamloops, who is now teaching a special slow-learners class.

Mrs. McKinley has special training in teaching deaf and similarly handicapped children.

She attended a British training centre in Manchester. The board will now apply to the education department for permission to set up such a special class.

Mr. La Bounty said, "It is much better for the children to be in their own environment, rather than in a distant school where they can only rarely get home."

In addition to children with hearing problems, the class will include youngsters with: Dyslexia, a specialized kind of reading problem, aphasia, and brain damage.

All the children in the group are of average or above-average intelligence.

"I'm so grateful," said Mrs. Kitchener. "I'm sure it has all been worth it!"

Gold River Fire Quenched by Rain

GOLD RIVER—The danger is over for this new townsite, as rain put the damper on a dangerous forest fire.

The fire had covered 2,000 acres, burned out bridges on the Nimpkish Road, and was just one mile from the new Tahsis Company townsite when Tuesday night's rain began to fall.

A company official said, "It's a welcome relief. The forest was hot and dry, we just barely had the situation under control."

Loggers are now back at their regular jobs.

New Class Opens For the Retarded

COURTENAY — Years of planning have ended with the opening of the new class for retarded children here.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell flew from Vancouver for the ceremony at the new classroom, provided by the school board.

Mr. Campbell is honorary president of the Comox Valley Association for the Retarded.

PAYS TRIBUTE

He paid tribute to the community which has contributed both time and money to make the work of the association possible, and to the school board for accepting its share of the responsibility in providing the best education for the mentally retarded.

Two letters were read, one from Rev. Murray Henderson and one from Clarence Rendle. Mr. Henderson is a past president of the association and although he could not attend in person sent his greetings by mail.

He too referred to the community support.

CONGRATULATED

Mr. Rendle, former superintendent of schools, congratulated the members.

Representatives from Comox, Cumberland, Courtenay, Upper Island Health Unit, and Dr. S. E. Jensen, director of mental health services for Vancouver Island, and the five staff members of the school, were also introduced.

The ribbon was cut in a joint snip by Brian Walker, chairman of the school board, and Richard Wilson, Kln president.

Cedar May Establish Separate Municipality

NANAIMO—North Cedar may set up its own municipality.

Alistair McLeod, head of the area's ratepayers, said the executive is investigating the possibility of setting up an organized municipality.

His announcement followed a decision by the ratepayers not to join a district municipality which may soon be formed by Nanaimo and surrounding communities.

In forming its own government, North Cedar would keep to itself the valuable asset of Harmac pulp mill, which lies within its boundaries.

"I wish Alistair McLeod well with his pipe dream," Tony Poje commented Wednesday.

Mr. Poje is one of the organizers of the district municipality plan, and represents Northfield. He said Harmac, which could have supplied a big industrial tax base to the district municipality, "hasn't anything to do with our problems."

"It would have put the icing on the cake," he admitted.

Mr. Poje is chairman of the planning committee which for the last year has been working to set up some form of local government for the Nanaimo school district.

North Cedar turned the proposal down 36-14, and Mr. MacLeod said the area was investigating forming a municipality of its own.

Mill, Chemical Plant

This would include a 25 square mile area taking in both the pulp mill and the Hooker Chemical Plant at Harmac.

Mr. MacLeod said, "I have already made inquiries at the municipal affairs level, and will pursue it more when the boundaries are more clearly defined."

Mr. Poje wasn't daunted by the Cedar vote, and said, "We can't turn our backs on our problems."

"I'm a little surprised at the people of Cedar making this move because they never indicated they wanted to go alone during the past year, in which time they participated in these merger meetings."

"It Cedar doesn't join we will still go ahead. The problems still exist and they can't be eliminated by the present method of improvement district government."

"A higher level of government is needed in order to deal effectively with the existing problems of the highly concentrated suburban areas surrounding Nanaimo."

Thief Takes Basic Ingredients

PORT ALBERNI — If all the items reported stolen Tuesday morning were taken by the same person, he's probably far away by now and under his own motor power.

RCMP in Port Alberni reported the theft of a 12-volt battery from Ohs Brothers garage, the drive shaft from a car on Fifth Avenue and the loss of 30 gallons of fuel oil that may have been mistaken for gasoline, from a home on Eleventh Avenue South.

Marina Promoters Sponsoring Open House Meet

MAPLE BAY — Two of the four Calgary businessmen who are proposing to establish a trailer marina on the Wainman-Wood property at Genoa Bay, have set up headquarters at the Maple Bay Inn for the next 10 days.

One of the men, Albert Bishop, said Wednesday "many Maple Bay residents are only protesting against this project because they are totally misinformed about what the scheme entails."

He and Godfrey Daniels will hold open house at the Maple Bay Inn and interested persons are asked to contact the promoters for more information on the project.

The men have a film on the proposed trailer marina, and the film will be shown to anyone at the Inn, or to organizations in the district.

RETIRING

Mr. Bishop said the proposed marina will be the second in Canada. The other one is located in Toronto.

He said the film is taken of a similar marina in the United States.

He said "many people believe that persons and families of all ages will be allowed to live at the marina. This is not so."

"The trailer occupants will be restricted to persons of 50 years of age and over, and the marina will have retiring quarters only."

Fund Vote Coming To Ease Crowding

LADYSMITH — Overcrowding school district at its North Oyster Elementary School.

Enrollment in September, 1964, was 103 but at the start of this school term it had jumped to 141.

To ease the situation the school board has decided to transport eight beginners and seven grade three pupils to Diamond Elementary School, three miles to the south.

CLASS PLANS

In the $1,400,000 referendum which ratepayers will face Nov. 6, extra classroom space is planned for North Oyster.

The board decided to hire two laboratory assistants for Ladysmith Secondary and Chemainus Secondary from among its own students.

The lab assistants would be chosen by the school administration with an honorarium of $100 each payable in June.

FOUR HOURS

He estimated the student would work four hours a week which he considered too much for a volunteer, and at the same time a paid arrangement would give the student a greater sense of responsibility.

The school day has been lengthened by 30 minutes, to five hours a day for all elementary students.

In the past Grades 1 and 2 attended for four and a half hours, and so did some of the higher grades in the district.

Now, everyone will be on the five hour schedule, with Grades 1 and 2 getting away with the shorter day for the months of October and September every year until they become accustomed to school.

The board also learned that two district students living in North Oyster, Sonya Doskotch and Kathy Allison have been selected to appear on Red Cross posters which will be circulated to all the schools in the province.

Today Deadline To Get on List

Residents of Island municipalities wishing to vote in December have only until tonight to get on the list.

The lists will be closed when city halls and municipal offices are locked for the night.

Those who have not filled in and returned the forms supplied, or who feel they have been missed, should make sure they are on the list by checking at the municipal hall.

Voters must be British subjects, 21 years old or more, and must have resided in the community for six months.

They need not be property owners.

Ucluelet Finishing Voters' Registration

UCLUELET — Enumerators are winding up their work in compiling the voters' list for the federal election.

Jean Rideout or Carmen Cousineau in Ucluelet; William Tyler at Lakeberg Logging; Ivan Clarke at Hot Springs Cove; Ted George at Ahousat reserve; Susan Bird or Olive Guppy at Toftm.

Driest Summer Since 1918

Outlying Areas Near Alberni Short of Water

PORT ALBERNI—The driest summer since 1918 is posing autumn water problems for many Alberni Valley residents in outlying areas.

Colin Wilson, McCoy Lake weatherman, reported this September was the driest since 1918.

Wells in the valley have in many cases run dry, and owners are hauling water by the barrel from rivers and lakes.

Cherry Creek residents thought the big drought was on when no water ran from taps in that district from 2 a.m. to 6 p.m. one Saturday. However, word from Mrs. Mark Mosher, secretary of Cherry Creek Water District, is that supplies are now adequate.

However a notice will be added to water bills in the Cherry Creek area, when bills go out in early October, asking people to use water carefully in the house, and to refrain from outdoor watering.

This precaution is deemed necessary because of the long-range weather forecast for continued dry weather.

A combination of a dry season and growing pains in the rapidly enlarging Cherry Creek district add up to problems.

An appointment has been set up for two trustees to meet with the water commissioner and the solicitor of the water resources branch.

Les McKinnon and John Patterson will meet the water officials to discuss financing and increasing storage to provide the area with a comprehensive water supply that will be adequate for the needs of the booming district.

Beaver Creek water district is not experiencing any problems this year, and officials attribute this to the use of meters throughout the system.

"Before we had meters," said one member, "a great deal of water used to be wasted. There were leaks in the system that were never suspected until water meters were installed."

"This has been our worst dry year, and the meters have proved well worthwhile."

"We do not consider meters as a restriction, or as a money-making scheme, but they have certainly discouraged water wastage."

Despite the great increase in housing in this area, and the terrific summer heat, 25 per cent less water was consumed than was used last summer, according to Beaver Creek Water District figures.

In the Sproat Lake area, most families draw their water supplies from the lake by electric pump systems. Meantime those who have to rely on wells hope the weatherman goes back to his usual autumn capers, and gives the valley his customary drenching fall rains.

Tree Farm Is Altered

ZEBALLOS — Tahsis Company's tree farm licence here has been extended. But in a surprise move, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston ruled out more than half the 100,000 acres requested by the company.

Tahsis wanted the timber to help support its 750-ton kraft pulp mill being built at Gold River.

Mr. Williston rejected Tahsis' bid for 35,300 acres of timber in the Gold River-Glacier Creek area.

He eliminated 18,200 acres in the Upper Arlith for the same reason, but added about 45,000 acres in the Zeballos area.

In lieu of the 51,600 acres he eliminated from the application, Mr. Williston added four small parcels along the western boundary of Tahsis' present licence.

Tahsis president J. V. Christensen said the terms were "a complete surprise." He said the company had never even considered the four smaller areas.

"We will give the decision our best attention," he said.

Hints of Soeared Rift Make Party Lines Hum

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — The telephone at Social Credit headquarters here is the busiest machine in the Alberni Valley.

Both local and long distance calls are coming in as a result of suggestions that there is a definite rift between provincial and national Social Credit parties.

One of the points most often raised, even by loyal Social Credit adherents, is the apparently divergent viewpoints of Premier Bennett and national leader Robert Thompson on the subject of a health plan.

WELFARE

As one member expressed it, "In a free democratic society, welfare projects like medical schemes should be handled in a way so that freedom is not interfered with."

Whether he disapproved of Mr. Bennett's plans or Mr. Thompson's views was not clear.

But one thing is clear. Almost every person who attended the annual meeting over the weekend, has a view to express, and members are almost as voluble as campaign candidates.

Complaints range from disapproval of the sale of alcoholic drinks at Social Credit functions to dissatisfaction with the handling of funds for such items as gifts, and what some have called "unusually large" expense accounts.

It is too late now for the harassed new executive of the group to try to hide the fact that there was some serious dissatisfaction with the previous executive, evidenced by last Saturday's completely new slate of senior officers.

The story came out not because there was "a leak" as has been suggested, but because everyone concerned was so cautious it became suspicious.

When a casual question like "How did your annual meeting go?" meets the answer "I'd rather not discuss it, you'd better talk to the new president," it spells trouble.

SUSPICIONS

The new executive has rejected a charge by a member of the old executive that secrecy at the provincial level, and a dispute between provincial and federal Socialreds, is behind the trouble.

The new senior officers say dissatisfaction with the old executive, and a refusal to accept the financial statement, caused the uproar.

Now, they are busy trying to calm anxious party members and rally the party for the election battle.

Factionalism Scored For Executive Switch

PORT ALBERNI — The former president of the Social Credit association here has blamed "factionalism" for the weekend change in top executive positions.

Denis Fitzgerald said both he and treasurer Gus Frigstad had told the association, both in membership and executive meetings, "we would pull out because of factionalism."

He said the financial records of the association have been audited regularly, and the membership has been welcome to look them over at any time.

He said the federal and provincial Socialreds are following different lines, and blasted a lack of leadership in both federal and provincial riding associations in B.C.

Second NHL Bid From Vancouver

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

By rights this piece should be written by someone like the late Clyde Beatty with a kitchen chair in one hand and a bullwhip in the other. It involves tangling with that doughy lion of the sporting press, Daniel M. Daniel, and anybody who dares dispute a point of fact with this most authoritative of all baseball authorities would spit in the eye of a wounded rhino.

Nevertheless, the cause of history and the honor of John M. Ogden demand that the battle be joined. In a recent column, Dan made a statement which cries aloud for correction. At least, John Ogden cries aloud.

Writing about the smallest crowds in major league annals, Dan blasphemously declared the legend "that only two fans, one of them owner Phil Ball of the Browns, showed up one day in St. Louis," is a fake.

If the court please, the defence proposes to show that the incident the prosecution so cavalierly rejects as apocryphal did indeed take place, is indeed historical fact.

Phil Ball was a crusty little tyrant who had a franchise in the Federal League, moved into the American when the Feds folded, and paid the Browns' debts until he died. If he were around today, chances are he would have his buttons cut off and be dropped out of the regiment, for he was an owner who patiently and persistently lost money without ever lifting his voice in complaint, without walling for tax relief or asking a city to build him a new park, without even threatening to jump to Atlanta.

First Division Lineup

The only year he had a serious pennant contender was 1922 when the Browns, in spite of George Sisler's batting average of .422, finished second to the Yankees. As in most years, the Browns of 1922 floundered in the second division, though that team would be the favorite in the American League today.

The catchers were Wally Schang and Rick Ferrell, a gifted rookie who had received the unheard of bonus of $25,000 as a free agent. Dexterous Lu Blue was a stylish first baseman and little Oscar Melillo would go for weeks without making an error at second. Red Kress was a brilliant shortstop in his second big league season, Frank O'Rourke a steady influence at third.

For all of that, they were losers. Except when the Cardinals were defending the National League pennant there, Sportsman's Park was strictly for the bats and owls. Especially when the Browns were playing their equally depressed cousins from Washington or Boston.

Not Fit for Seagulls

One rainy Sunday about noon, Bill Friel, the business manager, telephoned Ball for permission to postpone the game. The sorry Senators were in town. The dripping skies were as depressing as the ball clubs and the weatherman promised no improvement. Not even a misguided seagull would be out that day.

"I'm coming out," Ball said. "Play the game." He showed up as promised. The groundskeepers spread dry sand on the infield and the game got under way tardily. In my unreliable memory, Ball had a party of guests in his box, but on this we must defer to a higher authority. Call John Ogden.

John Ogden, being duly sworn, gives his address as Oxford, Pa., and his present occupation as an employee of the Phillies. On the letterhead of that club, he deposes: "Remember that game I pitched in St. Louis on a wet Sunday? Started 4:45 p.m. One paid admission and Phil Ball. I defeated Washington, 12-4, had four for four.

"You were there, Daniel Philip Howley, manager; Bill Killefer and Jimmy Austin, coaches. Best regards."

Now, 36 years have passed since that day and John Ogden has moved around and about more than somewhat. Human memory is not infallible, especially on ancient happenings that smack of the mythological.

One might allow that Ogden could err on some minor points, except for four words in his quote—"had four for four." John Ogden was a pitcher. When a pitcher makes four hits in four times at bat he forgets nothing about the occasion, not one stinking infinitesimal detail.

Your witness, Dan.

Koufax and Wills Repeat Formula; Dodgers Stretch Lead to Two Games

Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills spell out pitching and speed, and that's what the Los Angeles Dodgers have used in the gallant comeback which now has them two length ahead in the National League stakes with only four jumps to the finish line.

There was a small change in the formula last night. Koufax supplied the pitching and Wills made sure it was going to be good enough by driving in three runs and scoring a fourth.

Koufax was superb as the Dodgers eliminated Cincinnati

Reds from contention, holding them to two hits and striking out 13 in a 5-0 victory.

It was his 25th win of the season, the last five of which have been shutouts. He yielded a single to Vada Pinson in the fourth inning and another to Deron Johnson in the seventh as he roled his season's strike-out count to 309.

And he had to be that good, at least for most of the way. Jim Maloney matched him for five innings before yielding an unearned run in the sixth inning.

Bases on balls to Jim Gilliam, and Ron Fairly were followed by a single by Lou Johnson. Fairly scored when Frank Robinson threw badly trying to head him off at the plate.

It was tied in the seventh with another typical Dodger rally. Wes Parker and John Roseboro led off by drawing bases on balls and Koufax, who used to be one of baseball's more-terrible hitters, followed with his 20th hit of the season to load the bases.

Wills then banged out a triple and scored on a single by Gilliam.

It was the 12th straight victory for a club which was all but out of things two weeks ago, a streak in which Dodger pitching allowed but 12 earned runs in the last 11 games.

Meanwhile, San Francisco Giants, who had threatened to run away and hide when they started a 14-game win streak earlier this month, could not quite make a spectacular ninth-inning rally successful and lost for the sixth time in eight games.

Bob Gibson had led St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-0 lead after the first eight innings, pitching powerfully, scoring their first Tonight's game between Los Angeles and Milwaukee will be heard on KING radio (580) starting at 7:45, the station announced last night.

Two runs after two singles and then applying what proved to be the crusher with a grand-slam home run in the eighth.

Then the Giants came storming back. They scored five runs, the last three on a homer by Jim Davenport, and then got something going again with two out when Cap Peterson reached second base on a throwing error by Dick Groat and scored on a single by Jay Alou.

THE WILLSIES

Willie Mays and Willie McCovey were the next two hitters, and Hal Woodeshick became the next pitcher. Mays promptly hit one out of the park. But it was foul by three feet and Woodeshick made good on the second chance by striking McCovey out.

Results left the Dodgers two games ahead with four left for each club. The Dodgers are at home to Milwaukee Braves and the Giants host the disappointed Reds in the last series of the season.

TOP THREE

And the Dodgers are primed to go with their best, planning to use their top three pitchers with only two days of rest. If it be Don Drysdale today, then Claude Osteen. Koufax and Drysdale again to go after the three wins needed to clinch or the two needed to get nothing worse than a playoff.

Elsewhere, the feature was the size of the crowds at New York's Shea Stadium and Boston's Fenway Park.

Only 408 fans, smallest major league crowd of the season, turned out to watch the Red Sox beat California Angels, 2-1. And New York Mets had the smallest crowd in their history when 2,808 fans were on hand to watch them lose, 2-4, to Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pennant Pressure Pain in Neck

Baseball can be a pain in the neck to some people. Here San Francisco Giants' shortstop Dick Schofield goes to his knees in pain after stopping St. Louis' Curt Flood's hard-hit grounder with his neck.

He had to leave game. Hal Lanier, right, retrieved ball and threw out runner Lou Brock at third on play. But Cards won, 8-6.—(AP)

Sandown's Only Triple Winner

Green Again Fools Bettors Again

By JIM TANG

It's been a great racing season for C. R. "Bob" Elliott, and it's getting better for the Vancouver owner-trainer because of a lightly-regarded veteran named Green Again.

A nine-year-old gelding who in previous years had flashed a fair amount of speed but seldom held it, Green Again had gone to the post 13 times was posted. The Quinella was a neat $49.90.

Green Again was back last Saturday, this time the third mutual choice behind Bay Toe and Commander Joe. Again the pattern was the same, the price this time being $9.60 and the quinella $32.50 when Rough Road surprised even more by finishing second.

THEY ALL FORGOT

Yesterday, Green Again was back for the third time in five racing days. Most everybody forgot about the first two starts and he got away at odds a bit better than 7-1. But he ran the same kind of a race, hustling to the front early and holding them off until it was over.

That made him the first triple winner of the meeting, and probably the first, at Sandown at least, to pay $16.20 to win for the third straight win.

BIGGEST SUCCESS

Green Again isn't Elliott's biggest success of the season. That honor belongs to Fuddy's Orphan, a well-bred four-year-old gelding who has had his ailments since about the time he ran his first race.

Winner of his last two at Sandown last year, Fuddy's Orphan won nine of 18 starts, including six in a row, placed once and showed twice while running in the $2,500 class at Exhibition Park. The total in dollars came to $10,517, making him the richest horse at Sandown.

DONE WELL

Elliott has also done well this season with Read It and Indian Spirit, who have already won at Sandown, and has had fair success with Johnnie Hawk, Melody Man, Man of Mark, Aquilante, Grand Reward and Tommy Can. Only Blue Frame and Yamoto of the string he has at Sandown have eluded being part of a winning hand.

Fuddy's Orphan is scheduled for his first start in the featured seventh race tomorrow along with Tommy Can and also has Read It and Man of Mark entered.

Yesterday was still another day which provided something for both the chalk and longshot players.

Brown Wheat and Dark Doll ran like the good things that the mutual board said they should be to win the sixth and eighth races, respectively, and Bang Dancer and Hawkborn, who had served warning in their previous starts, won as second choices.

On the other side, Bold Mister lasted all the way for a $21 win return, Permano upset them in the featured seventh race for a $24.80 return, and Little Rooster beat the outside post to pay $10.

BREAKAGE: It appears likely that Sandown will have a clubhouse area for next season and, perhaps, other improvements for the patrons. . . . mutual handle yesterday was $38,384, which may be a record for any day but Saturday and Thanksgiving Day. It was almost $18,000 above last year's wagering for the same day and brought the meet total to $765,349, up more than 17 per cent for the first seven days last year. . . .

Victoria owner Gas Munro claimed Speedy Arrow, a promising three-year-old from C. W. Charles for $800, and Brown Wheat, who could become an excellent brood mare when her racing days are over, went the same way for the same money.

G. McLean. They ran one-two in the sixth race and both appear bargains. . . . and Dark Hawk progeny are again grabbing of Sandown purse money, Hawkborn got the big share in the second and it was Dark Doll and Aaron's Red for a $62.50 quinella in the eighth.

New York Jittery Over Papal Visit

Block the Killer 'Priests'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Detectives seeking to prevent a possible attack on Pope Paul here by any anti-religious fanatics disguised as priests have alerted shopkeepers to report any suspicious purchases of religious apparel.

At the same time federal and city security agents, preparing for the Pontiff's peace pilgrimage Monday, combed files of known psychopaths and other potential trouble-makers and tabbed them for special police surveillance.

The Pontiff will deliver 11 speeches during his stay here, most of them in English. But his major speech, a plea before the United Nations for world leaders to negotiate their differences, will be delivered in French.

Police Commissioner Vincent Broderick said law enforcement agencies had combined their efforts in a check of anti-Catholic members of hate groups. Eighteen thousand security assignments have been handed out in the police department alone in connection with the visit.

A spokesman for a religious apparel firm said a priest's apparel could easily be purchased for less than $100 and added, "frankly, there's no difficulty in purchasing such items ordinarily."

Wednesday, teams of policemen scoured the 24 miles of roadway the Pope will travel at a leisurely 12 miles an hour on his trip from Kennedy airport to St. Patrick's Cathedral, looking for likely places for an assassin to hide.

'War Crimes' Trials

North Viet Nam Promises More Executions

SAIGON (AP)—North Viet Nam has hurled threats of war crimes trials and execution at American and South Vietnamese fighting men.

U.S. spokesmen in Washington Wednesday called the threats a resort to savagery and a smoke-screen for reprisals against the execution by South Viet Nam of persons convicted of being Viet Cong guerrilla agents.

The threat of trials came from the North Vietnamese government in a letter to the International Red Cross at Geneva. It declared American and South Vietnamese pilots captured in its territory would be treated as war criminals who must face tribunals.

An official Hanoi publication hinted that Americans captured on the ground in the future may be executed summarily.

NO REACTION

U.S. officials in Saigon had no official reaction but informants said they were concerned over the threats.

On the warfronts Wednesday, U.S. advisers at Qui Nhon, 250 miles northeast of Saigon, reported three Viet Cong regiments—about 3,000 men—massing in an area where they fought bloody engagements with South Vietnamese troops last week and again Tuesday night.

SCATTERED FIGHTS

Elsewhere, U.S. marines and South Vietnamese forces clashed with the Viet Cong in scattered fights and U.S. planes, including B-52 bombers from Guam, pounded targets in South Viet Nam while other American aircraft raided in North Viet Nam.

The North Vietnamese letter was in reply to a Red Cross appeal to both sides to observe the Geneva convention for the protection of prisoners and civilians in Viet Nam.

U.S. officials in Washington expressed disappointment over the apparent rejection by North Viet Nam of the Red Cross efforts.

Divers Seek Dead

MANILA (AP)—Rescue workers cautiously checking the Lake Taal island blackened by Tuesday's eruption of Mount Taal, said Wednesday they found ashes and volcanic debris 30 feet deep in places. Only rooftops showed in a half-dozen villages.

There was no immediate sign of human life on the 12½-square-mile island, where 2,000 Filipinos had lived and farmed 40 miles south of Manila. Many had fled during the eruption to the lakeshore, five to 50 miles away, braving a rain of stones that sank freight boats. (See story, picture page 28.)

The Red Cross said 184 bodies were recovered on the shore.

MURKY WATER

Frogmen hunted for bodies in the lake, whose once-clear waters were murky with volcanic ash. Battered bodies of farm animals bobbed on the surface.

Rescuers drew some cheer from the fact that the area covered with ash and lava was somewhat smaller than originally reported. It appeared that about one-third of the island was badly hit, but residents of the other two-thirds may have had a chance to get to boats.

TOLL 500?

The Philippine constabulary reported about 15,000 people in refugee camps. A good number of these may be from the island itself, with the rest from threatened shorelands nearby.

The Manila Daily Mirror, which had reporters on the island, said the eventual death toll may turn out to be 500.

The volcano continued to growl 48 hours after the eruption. Black smoke and steam billowed out of the newly-formed crater on the edge of the island.

Kashmir Pull-Out

INDIA BALKS

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—India Wednesday turned down Pakistan's proposal that all Indian and Pakistani troops be withdrawn from Kashmir and replaced with a United Nations peacekeeping force pending settlement of the dispute over the Himalayan state.

H. E. Syed Mir Qasim, Kashmir minister with the Indian delegation to the UN, told the General Assembly "we are entirely opposed to this proposal" because, he said, Kashmir is a part of India and not an independent state as Pakistan claims.

Qasim was replying to an address Tuesday by Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto of Pakistan who accused India of aggression and proposed that a force from African, Asian and Latin-American states supervise Kashmir pending negotiations which would lead to a plebiscite in the troubled state.

Qasim charged that Pakistan, and not India, was the aggressor and then went on to outline how the people of Kashmir, though predominantly Muslim, "made their choice as between the Indian and Pakistani ideologies long before the events of Indian independence and the partition of the country."

Kashmir is an "integral part" of India, the Indian delegate said. "Its people are free nations of India, who have made their choice of union with India and ratified the union through their representatives elected on the basis of adult franchise."

In the morning, Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France urged the United Nations not to use force in trying to keep peace in the world. "Resorting to force could only be an adventure," said the foreign minister, delivering France's first policy statement in the assembly debate in five years.

France, however, had no objections to true supervisory operations such as those now under way in the Indian-Pakistan dispute, the French foreign minister said.

Indians Claim Win After Camel Clash

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP)—India claimed Wednesday it has gained the upper hand in fighting that erupted between Indian rangers and Pakistani camel units in the Rajasthan Desert despite the ceasefire agreement with Pakistan.

A defence ministry spokesman said "grievous losses in men and equipment" have been inflicted on Pakistani units which he charged were trying to infiltrate the west Indian state of Rajasthan.

SADDLERY

He said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured in clashes near the villages of Khehar, Dedmar and Chotan. War booty seized by the Indians was reported to include "18 camels complete with saddlery."

In Rawalpindi, a Pakistani spokesman said Indian troops committed another true violation Tuesday night in the Husseiniwal-Kheran sector. The spokesman alleged an Indian

Student Spots House Fire, Man Saved

Fast action by Saanich Fire Department and a University of Victoria student saved the life of James Blackstock, 1979 Taylor, brother of the late Victoria police chief John Blackstock, early this morning.

Fred Worthington, 19, of 1461 Derby was on his way home when he spotted fire and smoke coming from the Blackstock residence. He called firemen.

Firemen broke into the house and found Mr. Blackstock on his back on the kitchen floor, overcome by smoke. They applied artificial respiration and took him to Royal Jubilee Hospital where he was detained overnight.

Squabble Over Beer Fatal to Customer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man died of a heart attack here Wednesday during a squabble over a can of beer in the sixth week of a brewery strike.

Police said Jack Eng was one of many who rushed to a child food liquor store when word got out that it had received a shipment of beer from one of two small breweries still operating.

A squabble developed when Eng ordered two cans of beer and protests ensued from those waiting in line.

In a struggle that followed Eng fell to the sidewalk and struck his head.

A man, held for questioning, later was released when an autopsy showed Eng died of a heart attack and that his head wound was minor.

Family Ordered Out

Wilderness Dreams Dashed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lee van Dusen's dream of life in the British Columbia wilderness has vanished. He, his wife and three children have been ordered back to the U.S.

Two other American families, also from Tipton, Ind., will remain behind and try to build a life away from the city, at Wakeman

Sound, a remote mainland inlet about 200 miles north-east of here.

Immigration authorities ruled the van Dusens were not properly landed immigrants and have given them until the middle of October to leave the country.

Van Dusen, 27, told authorities he would have his wife Karen and three children flown out of an abandoned logging camp in which the families are living. Van Dusen said he would leave by boat as soon as he made repairs on his small inboard.

Immigration authorities said the heads of the other two families, Dave Stafford and Jack Myers, both 31, plan to obtain jobs in logging camps on the island.

"They will make good immigrants," an immigration spokesman said here Wednesday.

They said they can't make a living where they are, they will move out and fit into some community.

The men were quoted as saying they feared sporadic nuclear warfare, an impending Communist takeover, creeping socialism and the "Mickey Mouse philosophy."

"All they really want to do is get away from city life," the spokesman said. The Myers and Staffords lived on opposite sides of a freeway in Indiana and their children couldn't play with each other.

"There's a telephone at the logging camp so they're not quite as isolated as it would seem. They can call out in case of an emergency."
